TWO BILLION IS NEEDED TO KEEP NEUTRAL

PRESIDENT TO ASK CONGRESS FOR 275 MILLION

Washington, Oct. 31 (AP)—President Roosevelt estimated today that it would cost $275,000,000 to safeguard and enforce American neutrality during the first 10 months of the European war.

He told reporters that this sum would be asked of congress as a deficiency appropriation in January. This strengthened the belief of some officials that the total national defense appropriation for the next session would exceed $2,000,000,000.

The extra $275,000,000, Mr. Roosevelt told his press conference, is needed chiefly to pay for increases in the armed forces ordered September 8 when he proclaimed a limited national emergency. The expense covers maintenance of the Atlantic coast neutrality patrol and the mass training of troops ordered by the war department.

Fighting Forces Increased

A short time before the president spoke, Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex) of the senate military affairs committee predicted the expanding army would require $1,000,000,000 next year, and Chairman Scrugham (D-Nev) said the house naval appropriations subcommittee expected the navy budget would approach this sum.

In another defense development the war department announced that the first new aerial fighting unit to be formed since congress approved a $300,000,000 air corps expansion in April would be sent to Puerto Rico in November to reinforce defenses of that Caribbean outpost. It is the 27th reconnaissance squadron of 28 officers, 228 enlisted men and 9 planes.

Mr. Roosevelt said the $275,000,000 deficiency was for extra expenses and would be spent before the end of the fiscal year.

He explained that the deficiency appropriation would finance increases of about 100,000 ordered in the army, navy, marine corps and justice department and for recommissioning more than 50 long-idle World war destroyers to reinforce the neutrality patrol.

The sum, he said, was lower than his original estimate of $300,000,000.

Hinting at aditional further defense proposals, he said means of training the army must be increased, and that additional facilities for the navy were needed on the west coast. He mentioned specifically Puget Sound, San Francisco and Southern California.

Grants To Widows And Orphans Cut To Balance Budget

Lansing, Oct. 31 (AP)—Budget Director Gus T. Hartman won Governor Dickinson's approval tonight of a $2,000,000 reduction in the program of the state social security division.

The plan, Hartman said, will all but wipe out the division's prospective deficit without 'fund-juggling" and will remove the need for a special session of the legislature to vote additional relief funds.

The reduction will bring the average grant for a family receiving aid to dependent children to $34, Dr. Philip Callahan, head of the social security division, explained The level in Michigan is now $37.50, and some welfare statisticians have held that even that allowance is "dangerously" low according to subsistence standards.

Hartman, however, said his plan would enable mothers to help themselves, encouraging them to seek employment by permitting them to retain their wages in addition to the grants. At present, earnings are deducted in computing the grants.

As proposed, the budget director said, Michigan's allowance will be well above the average grant of 40 other states, which is $31.16. At the same time it will be low enough to enable the social service division to absorb, after January 1, the cost of mothers' pensions now borne by the counties.

Hartman said an average allowance of $34 would reduce the deficit for the current year to approximately $44,000. A lenient policy in districts where living costs are high will be practical, he said, expressing the belief that economies elsewhere would compensate for a deficiency as great as $250,000.

Governor Dickinson welcomed the plan, and hailed the inducement offered mothers to find employment. He said a state should seek not only to balance its budget, but to avoid the building up of "permanent" dependent classes by placing a premium on unemployment.

Dr. Callahan said he would transmit the recommendations to the social welfare commission, which had sought permission to transfer welfare funds to dependent children accounts in order to maintain the current level of grants and make available the greatest amount of federal aid. Hartman vetoed the commission's proposal, declaring such "juggling" of funds would be improper.

ARCHERS START HUNTING TODAY

Special Bow and Arrow Season Opens; About 500 Licenses Out

Lansing, Oct. 31 (AP)—The deer hunting season opens tomorrow—but wait—only for those who hunt with bow and arrow.

It may seem strange, considering that only eight deer were killed last fall with bow and arrow, but the state conservation department expects at least twice as many sportsmen to take part in attempts this year to bring down a buck with a flying, steel-tipped arrow.

Last year, the department reported, 227 bow and arrow licenses were issued, but this year the estimate runs between 400 and 500. The department would not be surprised if it were more than that.

This year, for the first time, deer may be killed with the ancient Indian type of artillery in the so-called "deer country," that is, north of the usual Bay City-Muskegon line. Leelanau county is always excepted. Prior to this, archers were allowed to hunt deer in only two counties.

The season will run through Nov. 14, when the rifle season on deer will open. Hunters may not obtain a license for both types of hunting.

The raccoon hunting season also opens tomorrow and continues through Dec. 15.

VIENNA ORDERS ALL JEWS OUT

Settlement Is Started In Former Polish Territory

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER

Berlin, Oct. 31 (AP)—At least 4,000 Jews have left Vienna in the last two weeks for a Jewish reservation in former Polish territory and local authorities have told the Jewish community there that Vienna must be "Jew free" by March 1, 1940.

At a time when Germans from Estonia and Latvia were moving "home into the reich" several thousand Jews of Vienna and Maehrisch-Ostrau as well were given three days to "depart from the reich."

They were ordered to move and settle somewhere near the new western frontier of Soviet Russia between the San and Vistula rivers in former Polish territory with Lublin as the center.

The first contingent of 2,000 men between the ages of 18 and 50 left Vienna October 18. They were followed October 27 by 2,000 more, mostly men, but also many women and children over 16. The first contingent of an undisclosed number left Maehrisch-Ostrau early last week and a second contingent, all women, October 25.

Fear was expressed among Jews in Berlin, Frankfort on the Main, Breslau and other cities that they might be the next to be ordered to leave for the reservation.

The Vienna Jews had to abandon their homes and turn the keys over to the Jewish community. They were permitted to take 110 pounds of luggage and 300 marks (about $120) worth of tools and machinery "if not too bulky and in so far as there was room for them."

New York World's Fair Closes; Open Again Next May 25

New York, Oct. 31 (AP)—For the first time since the $156,000,000 show was thrown open to a pop-eyed but hesitant public last April 30, the palpitant exhibitors of the New York World's Fair welcomed a rain today as they closed up shop and battened down for the winter.

Rain usually meant bad business, but today they thought it spelled salvation.

The exhibitors had been so perturbed over the prospect of prankish last-minute raids by souvenir hunters super-induced by the Halloween mood that some actually had planned to fold their places long before the actual closing and steal away.

So far as the public was concerned the 1939 finale of the most costly show on earth was practically a private affair; the closing night crowd was negligible owing to the dismal rain and fog.

A skeleton crew, including an Eskimo family living in an air-conditioned igloo, will stand guard over the fair's valuables through the winter. The 1940 opening is scheduled for May 25.

The fair produced many records but failed by some 24 millions to come up to expectations in attendance.

Byrd Snow Cruiser Gets Moving Again

Lima, O., Oct. 31 (AP)—The Antarctic snow cruiser stranded near here more than three days will resume its lumbering progress eastward Wednesday morning, barring further difficulties.

The 37-ton vehicle received repairs tonight on the highway near here after being driven under its own power from the small creek bed into which it plunged Saturday after striking a corner of a bridge.

Embargo Repealists Win First Skirmish In House

Washington, Oct. 31 (AP)—Advocates of repealing the arms embargo won the first skirmish over neutrality legislation in the house today when the chamber agreed to send the measure to a conference committee to adjust differences between the senate and house versions.

The vote, which effectively prevented the embargo bloc from offering amendments from the floor was taken amid angry cries of "city slicker tactics!" administration men replied that the procedure was normal.

There was no roll call on the question, but administration leaders jubilantly hailed a previous roll call, on which they mustered an unexpectedly high majority of 60 votes, as indicating a safe margin for repeal of the embargo when the final test comes.

The roll call was on question of ending debate on the procedure to be adopted for considering the bill. The result in effect, defeated a Republican attempt to open up the legislation for house amendments. The vote was 237 to 177.

Opponents of repeal—most bitterly controverted issue of the neutrality fight — had pleaded bitingly and vainly for an opportunity to bring the senate bill before the house for any amendments it might see fit to adopt, or to send it to the foreign affairs committee to be amended.

The senate measure repeals the existing embargo on arms and ammunition. The house bill, approved last session, embargoes "lethal" weapons—such as death dealing gases, guns and ammunition —but permits the sale to belligerents of other implements of war such as airplanes and oil.

Today's action does not deprive opponents of repeal of an opportunity to vote on the question of what instructions, if any, the house should give the conferees who will represent it in negotiations with senators. It is this question of instructing the conferees which is expected to occupy the house for the next two days. No time limit, however, has been fixed for debating the question.

STRIKE AFFECTS TRUCK FACTORY

Chrysler Negotiations At Standstill; Dodge Unit Closes

Detroit, Oct. 31 (AP)—Another Chrysler corporation unit, the Dodge truck plant, closed today as negotiations in a dispute with the CIO United Automobile Workers remained at a standstill.

The truck plant had been operating at approximately half (its capacity, employing 1,000 men, for three weeks because of the dispute that has made idle nearly 100,000 workers in automobile and allied industries.

A Chrysler spokesman said that "starting at 10 a. m. today production on the heavy duty Dodge truck line was cut down to 50 per cent of normal. By 2 p. m. work was so disrupted in the plant that normal operations could not continue. Appeals to the president of the union local and to the plant shop committee were fruitless. Union officials refused to make any effort to correct the situation."

R. J. Thomas, UAW-CIO president, said that "the employes were locked out by the company." The plant closed this afternoon.

James F. Dewey, United States department of labor conciliator who has been seeking a settlement of the dispute in conferences between corporation and union officials, said today that questions of "arbitration of grievances, scope of the contract and the degree of recognition" were discussed at a morning session.

Prison Is Barred From Making Candy

Lansing, Oct. 31. (AP)—Attorney General Thomas Read declared in an opinion today that state prisons may not manufacture candy for sale to inmates at prison "canteens."

Read informed William H. Burke of Jackson, manager of state prison industries, that since prisoners buy the candy from canteens with their own money and since prison funds are not used to purchase the candy, a 1935 ban on the manufacture of products for sale in the open market applied.

Michigan Varnish On City Of Flint

Detroit, Oct. 31 (AP)—A consignment of 40 drums of Michigan-made varnish was aboard the freighter City of Flint when she was captured by a German prize crew, Augusta Bookmeyer of Berry Brothers, Inc., Detroit manufacturer, said today. The varnish was consigned to an English pottery maker.

WESTERN FRONT BIG GUNS HEARD

Long - Range Artillery Used By Nazis for First Time

BY ROY P. PORTER

Paris, Oct. 31 (AP)—The French reported "marked activity" on the western front today with a series of land skirmishes between French and German forces and brisk artillery duels in which the Germans were said to have used long-range heavy artillery for the first time in the war.

A general staff communique said both sides engaged in raids and ambushes in the Lorraine sector between the Moselle and Saar rivers on a section extending from the Luxembourg border to Sarreguimines.

The high command also reported that "in the course of many flights" yesterday one bi-motored Nazi reconnaissance plane was downed in French territory and two fell out of control in German lines on the Saar front. The report said all French planes returned safely.

Military commentators said that during the second day of renewed activity at least one French village, six miles behind an unidentified area of the front, was battered by German long-range guns.

These sources said French gunners, who previously had shelled the Siegfried positions with their 155's, replied to the enemy.

The day's activities, however, were said to appear to be no more than localized or preliminary attempts to test each other's strength.

Radio Hears SOS On U-Boat Attack

New York, Nov. 1 (Wednesday) (AP)—MacKay radio reported today receipt of an "SOS" from an unidentified vessel followed by the phrase "Ssss submarine" which MacKay said probably meant "submarine attack."

BY CHARLES H. GUPTILL

Rome, Oct. 31. (AP)—Premier Mussolini in a sweeping overhauling of the Fascist leadership today removed three military chiefs who had conducted staff talks with German officers and two cabinet members popularly regarded as pro-German.

The shuffling of military chiefs, army leaders, and cabinet ministers, however, was regarded in foreign circles as primarily designed to reinforce the Fascist regime at home with the international aspect incidental to domestic factors.

Whether there was any deliberate thought of shelving those in the government who had been looked on as pro-German could not be ascertained.

People Pleased

But all three replaced chiefs of staff—Gen. Alberto Pariani of the army, General Giuseppe Valle of the airforce and Lieut.-Gen. Luigi Russo, of the blackshirt militia—had conferred with their German counterparts after signing of the Italian-German military alliance last May—an alliance which no longer is mentioned in Italy.

The two cabinet members considered as having pro-German sympathies and affected by the shakeup were Lieut.-Gen. Achille Starace, secretary of the Fascist party, and Dino Alfieri, minister of popular culture (propaganda). Transfer to other posts removed them from the cabinet.

The shakeup was expected to please the Italian people. There have been idespread reports of popular dissatisfaction with the pro-German tendencies of some of the lesser Fascist leaders.

Mussolini gave evidence that he was moving with popular sentiment when in a speech three days ago he said Fascism only wanted to go forward "with the people and for the people."

Son-In-Law Ranks High

With the changes, some foreign observers considered Mussolini had established a middle-of-the-road cabinet. His son-in-law, Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano, and Minister of Justice Count Dino Grandi remained as perhaps the outstanding figures next to Il Duce.

At the end of this game of bureaucratic musical chairs, several incumbents were left without new posts. Conspicuous among them was General Pariani, who was succeeded by Marshal Rudolf Graziani as chief of staff and by General Ubaldo Soddu as undersecretary of war.

Also left without post was General Valle, who was under-secretary of aeronautics as well as aviation chief of staff. He was replaced by Gen. Francesco Pricolo, considered one of Italy's best air officers.

Old Indian Burial Ground Excavated At St. Joseph, Mich.

St. Joseph, Mich., Oct. 31 (AP) —Authorities on Indian lore today believed workmen excavating a basement here had discovered an ancient Indian burial ground.

Two human skeletons were uncovered today and, like a skeleton found last Friday, were buried with heads toward the southwest. No implements or relics were found in the graves.

Sheriff Charles L. Miller and other authorities are puzzled, however, that the bodies were under four and a half feet of earth, deeper than usual Indian graves.

The skeletons were uncovered a mile from the site of Burnett's Trading Post, one of the earliest settlements in Michigan. The vicinity was once an Indian encampment.

Dangerous Storm Approaching Cuba

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct., 31 (AP) —A "dangerous" tropical storm with winds of hurricane force near the center was reported by the weather bureau tonight to be increasing in intensity as it approached eastern Cuba.

The bureau in a 9:30 p. m. Eastern Standard Time advisory said the storm was central at 7 p. m. about 50 miles northeast of Grand Cayman and moving east northeast about 12 miles an hour, "attended by strong winds over a wide area and winds of hurricane force near the center."

The 7 p. m. position of the storm was about 125 miles south of Miami. Forecasters said it probably would pass over eastern Cuba tomorrow morning.

Norwegian Gunboat Escorts Nazi Crew And City Of Flint

Bergen, Norway, Oct. 31 (AP)—The American freighter City of Flint, in command of a German prize crew, was feeling her way southward along the North Norwegian coast tonight followed by a Norwegian man-of-war.

The prize ship, on her way from the Soviet port of Murmansk to a haven in Germany, was sighted off Lodingen light this morning flying a German flag.

Shipping circles gave the German prize crew an even chance to escape British detection on her blockade-dodging voyage along the rugged Norwegian coast.

Appearance of the City of Flint off Lodingen on the inland route down one of the world's most broken coasts was taken as an indication the German prize crew had requested and obtained permission to move in Norwegian territorial waters.

Bound for Hamburg?

The Norwegian naval watch-dog was believed to be the 1,170-ton destroyer Sleipner, which followed the captured American vessel out of Tromsoe waters yesterday. The Norwegian boat was said to be nearby, not as an escort vessel, but to guard and protect Norwegian interests and to see that the City of Flint complied with rules laid down for her passage through Norwegian territorial waters.

It was understood if there was any violation of the rules, the vessel would be halted and both ship and crew interned.

(Reports reaching Copenhagen from Tromsoe said the City of Flint was in Tromsoe waters three hours yesterday and took on fresh meat and water from a motor launch which cruised slowly alongside. The City of Flint as a prize ship did not enter the harbor. Some Tromsoe residents believed German cargo boats were convoying the prize ship since one preceded the City of Flint and another followed by short intervals.)

Observers believed the City of Flint would follow the Scandinavian coast until she reached the Baltic, where an adequate German escort might see her into port, with Hamburg considered a likely objective.

IDEA RIDICULED ON THIRD TERM

West Coast Promotion Story Is Invention, President Claims

Washington, Oct. 31. (AP)—President Roosevelt today branded as somebody's invention any idea that a proposed conference on the west coast might be intended to promote a third term for the new deal.

The chief executive was questioned at his press conference about the statement made yesterday by John L. Lewis that two administration officials were organizing a meeting of western "progressive leaders" in January for the secret purpose of starting a third term boom.

Mr. Roosevelt said all he knew about the matter was that there had been talk last August of a non-political parley on the west coast for discussion of such matters as liberal government, social welfare, old age pensions and agricultural problems.

Earlier in the day, one of the officials accused by Lewis of organizing the conference to promote a third term said that his advice had been asked concerning the proposed meeting but that it was not his project.

Marshall E. Dimock, second assistant secretary of the labor department, told reporters that both he and Norman M. Littell, assistant to Attorney General Murphy, had been asked for advice but that "it is not our conference and we are not the people to talk about it."

Arthur Gustafson, general superintendent, said the tract will be logged selectively and logs hauled 20 miles by truck to company's sawmill at Phelps, Wis.

FINNS WARNED NOT TO SPURN SOVIET TERMS

BY WITT HANCOCK

Moscow, Oct. 31 (AP)—Premier Molotoff today chided President Roosevelt for lending Finland the "moral support" of the United States, in effect warned the Finns to come to terms, and notified the world that Russia is drawing closer to Germany and Japan, partners in the anti-commintern pact.

In an exhaustive report on Russia's new foreign policy, the premier and foreign commissar told more than 1,100 deputies attending the extraordinary joint session of the Soviet council that the United States' move to repeal its arms embargo would "intensify, aggravate and protract" the European war.

Allies Denounced

Salient points in Molotoff's 85-minute speech:

1. Struck at President Roosevelt for "intervening" in Russia's negotiations with Finland "in contradiction of the United States' policy of neutrality."
2. Declared Russia was unable to understand Finland's refusal of a mutual assistance pact similar to those which made the Baltic states of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania virtual protectorates.
3. Denounced Great Britain and France for carrying on the war with Germany for the purpose, he said, of safeguarding their colonial possessions.
4. Said "there can be no question of restoring Poland" and that it was "absurd to continue the present war" for such a cause.
5. Asserted that German and Russian relations are being placed on an increasingly-solid and friendly basis.
6. Announced trade negotiations would be opened with Japan and opened the door for a move by Tokyo toward stronger cooperation—possibly a non-aggression pact.
7. Gave no hint of any possible Soviet aims in the Balkans but said Turkey, which refused a pact with Russia and signed one with Britain and France, must take note of the offer of cooperation to Japan.

Stalin Gets Ovation

By her pact with Britain and France, he said, Turkey had moved into the "orbit of war" and he would not hazard a guess whether Turkey would come to regret it.

Russia's dictator, Joseph Stalin, was given a tremendous ovation when he seated himself along with other Soviet leaders in front of the chairman's rostrum of the modern hall built behind the picturesque Kremlin.

Touching on President Roosevelt's plea on Oct. 11 for Finland, Molotoff said near the end of his address:

"One finds it hard to reconcile that with the American policy of neutrality.

"In a message to Comrade Kalinin, chairman of the presidium of the supreme Soviet, Mr. Roosevelt expressed the hope that friendly and peaceful relations between the U. S. S. R. and Finland would be preserved and developed.

"One might think that matters are in better shape between the United States and, let us say, the Philippines or Cuba, who have long been demanding freedom and independence from the United States and cannot get them, than

TWO BILLION IS NEEDED TO KEEP NEUTRAL

PRESIDENT TO ASK CONGRESS FOR 275 MILLION

Washington, Oct. 31 (AP)—President Roosevelt estimated today that it would cost $275,000,000 to safeguard and enforce American neutrality during the first 10 months of the European war.

Grants To Widows And Orphans Cut To Balance Budget

Lansing, Oct. 31 (AP)—Budget Director Gus T. Hartman won Governor Dickinson's approval tonight of a $2,000,000 reduction in the program of the state social security division.

Special Bow and Arrow Season Opens; About 500 Licenses Out

Lansing, Oct. 31 (AP)—The deer hunting season opens tomorrow—but wait—only for those who hunt with bow and arrow.

It may seem strange, considering that only eight deer were killed last fall with bow and arrow, but the state conservation department expects at least twice as many sportsmen to take part in attempts this year to bring down a buck with a flying, steel-tipped arrow.

Last year, the department reported, 227 bow and arrow licenses were issued, but this year the estimate runs between 400 and 500. The department would not be surprised if it were more than that.

This year, for the first time, deer may be killed with the ancient Indian type of artillery in the so-called "deer country," that is, north of the usual Bay City-Muskegon line. Leelanau county is always excepted. Prior to this, archers were allowed to hunt deer in only two counties.

The season will run through Nov. 14, when the rifle season on deer will open. Hunters may not obtain a license for both types of hunting.

The raccoon hunting season also opens tomorrow and continues through Dec. 15.

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER

Berlin, Oct. 31 (AP)—At least 4,000 Jews have left Vienna in the last two weeks for a Jewish reservation in former Polish territory and local authorities have told the Jewish community there that Vienna must be "Jew free" by March 1, 1940.

At a time when Germans from Estonia and Latvia were moving "home into the reich" several thousand Jews of Vienna and Maehrisch-Ostrau as well were given three days to "depart from the reich."

They were ordered to move and settle somewhere near the new western frontier of Soviet Russia between the San and Vistula rivers in former Polish territory with Lublin as the center.

The first contingent of 2,000 men between the ages of 18 and 50 left Vienna October 18. They were followed October 27 by 2,000 more, mostly men, but also many women and children over 16. The first contingent of an undisclosed number left Maehrisch-Ostrau early last week and a second contingent, all women, October 25.

Fear was expressed among Jews in Berlin, Frankfort on the Main, Breslau and other cities that they might be the next to be ordered to leave for the reservation.

The Vienna Jews had to abandon their homes and turn the keys over to the Jewish community. They were permitted to take 110 pounds of luggage and 300 marks (about $120) worth of tools and machinery "if not too bulky and also as far as there was room for them."

New York, Oct. 31 (AP)—For the third time since the $156,000,000 show was thrown open to a pop-eyed but hesitant public last April 30, the palpitant exhibitors of the New York World's Fair welcomed a rain today as they closed up shop and battened down for the winter.

Rain usually meant bad business, but today they thought it spelled salvation.

The exhibitors had been so perturbed over the prospect of prankish last-minute raids by souvenir hunters super-induced by the Halloween mood that some actually had planned to fold their places long before the actual closing and steal a way.

So far as the public was concerned the 1939 finale of the most costly show on earth was practically a private affair; the closing night crowd was negligible owing to the dismal rain and fog.

A skeleton crew, including an Eskimo family living in an air-conditioned igloo, will stand guard over the fair's valuables through the winter. The 1940 opening is scheduled for May 25.

The fair produced many records but failed by some 24 millions to come up to expectations in attendance.

Byrd Snow Cruiser Gets Moving Again

Lima, O., Oct. 31 (AP)—The Antarctic snow cruiser stranded near here more than three days will resume its lumbering progress eastward Wednesday morning, barring further difficulties.

The 37-ton vehicle received repairs tonight on the highway near here after being driven under its own power from the small creek bed into which it plunged Saturday after striking a corner of a bridge.

Embargo Repealists Win First Skirmish In House

Washington, Oct. 31 (AP)—Advocates of repealing the arms embargo won the first skirmish on neutrality legislation in the house today when the chamber agreed to send the measure to a conference committee to adjust differences between the senate and house versions.

The vote, which effectively prevented the embargo bloc from offering amendments from the floor was taken amid angry cries of "city slicker tactics!" administration men replied that the procedure was normal.

There was no roll call on the question, but administration leaders jubilantly hailed a previous roll call, on which they mustered an unexpectedly high majority of 60 votes, as indicating a safe margin for repeal of the embargo when the final test comes.

The roll call was on question of ending debate on the procedure to be adopted for considering the bill. The result in effect, defeated a Republican attempt to open up the legislation for house amendments. The vote was 237 to 177.

Opponents of repeal—most bitterly controverted issue of the neutrality fight — had pleaded bitingly and vainly for an opportunity to bring the senate bill before the house for any amendments it might see fit to adopt, or to send it to the foreign affairs committee to be amended.

The senate measure repeals the existing embargo on arms and ammunition. The house bill, approved last session, embargoes "lethal" weapons—such as death dealing gases, guns and ammunition —but permits the sale to belligerents of other implements of war such as airplanes and oil.

Today's action does not deprive opponents of repeal of an opportunity to vote on the question of that instructions, if any, the house should give the conferees who will represent it in negotiations with senators. It is this question of instructing the conferees which is expected to occupy the house for the next two days. No time limit, however, has been fixed for debating the question.

STRIKE AFFECTS TRUCK FACTORY

Chrysler Negotiations At Standstill; Dodge Unit Closes

Detroit, Oct. 31 (AP)—Another Chrysler corporation unit, the Dodge truck plant, closed today as negotiations in a dispute with the CIO United Automobile Workers remained at a standstill.

The truck plant had been operating at approximately half its capacity, employing 1,000 men, for three weeks because of the dispute that has made idle nearly 100,000 workers in automobile and allied industries.

A Chrysler spokesman said that "starting at 10 a. m. today production on the heavy duty Dodge truck line was cut down to 50 per cent of normal. By 2 p. m. work was so disrupted in the plant that normal operations could not continue. Appeals to the president of the union local and to the plant shop committee were fruitless. Union officials refused to make any effort to correct the situation."

R. J. Thomas, UAW-CIO president, said that "the employes were locked out by the company." The plant closed this afternoon.

James F. Dewey, United States department of labor conciliator who has been seeking a settlement of the dispute in conferences between corporation and union officials, said today that questions of "arbitration of grievances, scope of the contract and the degree of recognition" were discussed at a morning session.

Prison Is Barred From Making Candy

Lansing, Oct. 31. (AP)—Attorney General Thomas Read declared in an opinion today that state prisons may not manufacture candy for sale to inmates at prison "canteens."

Read informed William H. Burke of Jackson, manager of state prison industries, that since prisoners buy the candy from canteens and prison funds are not used to purchase the candy, a 1935 ban on the manufacture of products for sale in the open market applied.

Michigan Varnish On City Of Flint

Detroit, Oct. 31 (AP)—A consignment of 40 drums of Michigan-made varnish was aboard the freighter City of Flint when she was captured by a German prize crew, Ralph Bookmeyer, of Berry Brothers, Inc., Detroit manufacturer, said today. The varnish was consigned to an English pottery maker.

WESTERN FRONT BIG GUNS HEARD

BY ROY P. PORTER

Paris, Oct. 31 (AP)—The French reported "marked activity" on the western front today with a series of land skirmishes between French and German forces and brisk artillery duels in which the Germans were said to have used long-range heavy artillery for the first time in the war.

A general staff communique said both sides engaged in raids and ambushes in the Lorraine sector between the Moselle and Saar rivers on a section extending from the Luxembourg border to Sarreguimines.

The high command also reported that "in the course of many flights" yesterday one bi-motored Nazi reconnaissance plane was downed in French territory and two fell out of control in German lines on the Saar front. The reports said all French planes returned safely.

Military commentators said that during the second day of renewed activity at least one French village, six miles behind an unidentified area of the front, was battered by German long-range guns.

These sources said French gunners, who previously had shelled the Siegfried positions with their 155's, replied to the enemy.

The day's activities, however, were said to appear to be no more than localized or preliminary attempts to test each other's strength.

Radio Hears SOS On U-Boat Attack

New York, Nov. 1 (Wednesday) (AP)—MacKay radio reported today receipt of an "SOS" from an unidentified vessel followed by the phrase "Sss submarine" which MacKay said probably meant "submarine attack."

BY CHARLES H. GUPTILL

Rome, Oct. 31. (AP)—Premier Mussolini in a sweeping overhauling of the Fascist leadership today removed three military chiefs who had conducted staff talks with German officers and two cabinet members popularly regarded as pro-German.

The shuffling of military chiefs, army leaders, and cabinet ministers, however, was regarded in foreign circles as primarily designed to reinforce the Fascist regime at home with the international aspect incidental to domestic factors.

Whether there was any deliberate thought of shelving those in the government who had been looked on as pro-German could not be ascertained.

People Pleased

But all three replaced chiefs of staff—Gen. Alberto Pariani of the army, General Giuseppe Valle of the airforce and Lieut.-Gen. Luigi Russo, of the blackshirt militia—had conferred with their German counterparts after signing of the Italian-German military alliance last May—an alliance which no longer is mentioned in Italy.

The two cabinet members considered as having pro-German sympathies and affected by the shakeup were Lieut.-Gen. Achille Starace, secretary of the Fascist party, and Dino Alfieri, minister of popular culture (propaganda). Transfer to other posts removed them from the cabinet.

The shakeup was expected to please the Italian people. There have been idespread reports of popular dissatisfaction with the pro-German tendencies of some of the lesser Fascist leaders.

Mussolini gave evidence that he was moving with popular sentiment when in a speech three days ago he said Fascism only wanted to go forward "with the people and for the people."

Son-In-Law Ranks High

With the changes, some foreign observers considered Mussolini had established a middle-of-the-road cabinet. His son-in-law, Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano, and Minister of Justice Count Dino Grandi remained as perhaps the outstanding figures next to Il Duce.

At the end of this game of bureaucratic musical chairs, several incumbents were left without new posts. Conspicuous among them was General Pariani, who was succeeded by Marshal Rudolf Graziani as chief of staff and by General Ubaldo Soddu as undersecretary of war.

Also left without post was General Valle, who was under-secretary of aeronautics as well as aviation chief of staff. He was replaced by Gen. Francesco Pricolo, considered one of Italy's best air officers.

Old Indian Burial Ground Excavated At St. Joseph, Mich.

St. Joseph, Mich., Oct. 31 (AP)—Authorities on Indian lore today believed workmen excavating a basement here had discovered an ancient Indian burial ground.

Two human skeletons were uncovered today and, like a skeleton found last Friday, were buried with heads toward the southwest. No implements or relics were found in the graves.

Sheriff Charles L. Miller and other authorities are puzzled, however, that the bodies were under four and a half feet of earth, deeper than usual Indian graves.

The skeletons were uncovered a mile from the site of Burnett's Trading Post, one of the earliest settlements in Michigan. The vicinity was once an Indian encampment.

Dangerous Storm Approaching Cuba

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 31 (AP)—A "dangerous" tropical storm with winds of hurricane force near the center was reported by the weather bureau tonight to be increasing in intensity as it approached eastern Cuba.

The bureau in a 9:30 p. m. Eastern Standard Time advisory said the storm was central at 9 p. m. about 50 miles northeast of Grand Cayman and moving east northeast about 12 miles an hour, "attended by strong winds over a wide area and winds of hurricane force near the center."

The 7 p. m. position of the storm was about 425 miles south of Miami. Forecasters said it probably would pass over eastern Cuba tomorrow morning.

Norwegian Gunboat Escorts Nazi Crew And City Of Flint

Bergen, Norway, Oct. 31 (AP)—The American freighter City of Flint, in command of a German prize crew, was feeling her way southward along the North Norwegian coast tonight followed by a Norwegian man-of-war.

The prize ship, on her way from the Soviet port of Murmansk to a haven in Germany, was sighted off Lodingen light this morning flying a German flag.

Appearance of the City of Flint off Lodingen on the inland route down one of the world's most broken coasts was taken as an indication the German prize crew had requested and obtained permission to move in Norwegian territorial waters.

Bound for Hamburg?

The Norwegian naval watch-dog was believed to be the 1,170-ton destroyer Sleipner, which followed the captured American vessel out of Tromsoe waters yesterday. The Norwegian boat was said to be nearby, not as an escort vessel, but to guard and protect Norwegian interests and to see that the City of Flint complied with rules laid down for her passage through Norwegian territorial waters.

It was understood if there was any violation of the rules, the vessel would be halted and both ship and crew interned.

Reports reaching Copenhagen from Tromsoe said the City of Flint was in Tromsoe waters three hours yesterday and took on fresh meat and water from a motor launch which cruised slowly along side. The City of Flint as a prize ship did not enter the harbor. Some Tromsoe residents believed German cargo boats were convoying the prize ship since one preceded the City of Flint and another followed by short intervals.

Observers believed the City of Flint would follow the Scandinavian coast until she reached the Baltic, where an adequate German escort might see her into port, with Hamburg considered a likely objective.

IDEA RIDICULED ON THIRD TERM

Washington, Oct. 31 (AP)—President Roosevelt today branded as somebody's invention any idea that a proposed conference on the west coast might be intended to promote a third term for the new deal.

The chief executive was questioned at his press conference about the statement made yesterday by John L. Lewis that two administration officials were organizing a meeting of western "progressive leaders" in January for the secret purpose of starting a third term boom.

Mr. Roosevelt said all he knew about the matter was that there had been talk last August of a non-political parley on the west coast for discussion of such matters as liberal government, social welfare, old age pensions and agricultural problems.

Earlier in the day, one of the officials accused by Lewis of organizing the conference to promote a third term said that his advice had been asked concerning the proposed meeting but that it was not his project.

Marshall E. Dimock, second assistant secretary of the labor department, told reporters that both he and Norman M. Littell, assistant to Attorney General Murphy, had been asked for advice but that "it is not our conference and we are not the people to talk about it."

Iron River Logging Job Takes 4 Years

Iron River, Mich., Oct. 31 (AP)—Logging operations which will keep 150 to 200 local men busy for four years, were begun this week by the C. M. Christiansen Lumber company on a 3,000 acre tract of hardwood lumber eight miles from here. Arthur Gustafson, general superintendent of the company, said the tract will be logged selectively and logs hauled 20 miles by truck to the company's sawmill at Phelps, Wis.

FINNS WARNED NOT TO SPURN SOVIET TERMS

BY WITT HANCOCK

Moscow, Oct. 31 (AP)—Premier Molotoff today chided President Roosevelt for lending Finland the "moral support" of the United States, in effect warned the Finns to come to terms, and notified the world that Russia is drawing closer to Germany and Japan, partners in the anti-comintern pact.

In an exhaustive report on Russia's new foreign policy, the premier and foreign commissar told more than 1,100 deputies attending the extraordinary joint session of the Soviet council that the United States' move to repeal its arms embargo would "intensify, aggravate and protract" the European war.

Allies Denounced

Salient points in Molotoff's 85-minute speech:

1. Struck at President Roosevelt for "intervening" in Russia's negotiations with Finland "in contradiction of the United States' policy of neutrality."
2. Declared Russia was unable to understand Finland's refusal of a mutual assistance pact similar to those which made the Baltic states of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania virtual protectorates.
3. Denounced Great Britain and France for carrying on the war with Germany for the purpose, he said, of safeguarding their colonial possessions.
4. Said "there can be no question of restoring Poland" and that it was "absurd to continue the present war" for such a cause.
5. Asserted that German and Russian relations are being placed on an increasingly-solid and friendly basis.
6. Announced trade negotiations would be opened with Japan and opened the door for a move by Tokyo toward stronger cooperation—possibly a non-aggression pact.
7. Gave no hint of any possible Soviet aims in the Balkans but said Turkey, which refused a pact with Russia and signed one with Britain and France, must take note of the offer of cooperation to Japan.

Stalin Gets Ovation

By her pact with Britain and France, he said, Turkey had moved into the "orbit of war" and in the future would not hazard a guess whether Turkey would come to regret it.

Russia's dictator, Joseph Stalin, was given a tremendous ovation when he seated himself along with other Soviet leaders in front of the chairman's rostrum of the modern hall built behind the picturesque Kremlin.

Touching on President Roosevelt's plea on Oct. 11 for Finland, Molotoff said near the end of his address:

"One finds it hard to reconcile that with the American policy of neutrality.

"In a message to Comrade Kalinin, chairman of the presidium of the supreme Soviet, Mr. Roosevelt expressed the hope that friendly and peaceful relations between the U. S. S. R. and Finland would be preserved and developed.

"One might think that matters are in better shape between the United States and, let us say, the Philippines or Cuba, who have long been demanding freedom and independence from the United States and cannot get them, than

GERMAN TROOPS INVADE FRANCE

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER

Berlin, Oct. 31 (AP)—DNB, official German news agency, late today published a report describing how German scouting troops invaded two hastily-evacuated French villages lying before the Maginot line and returned with war booty.

However, military experts authorized to give information said the report did not come from the high command.

The experts would not even admit that the report was the first evidence of Germans crossing into French territory, saying that at the French-German frontier it often was difficult to know exactly where the boundary line runs, with the result that inquisitive scouting units often get on the other fellow's ground.

(A French high command communique on October 16 said German troops had penetrated momentarily to the French frontier post of Apach.)

Soon after inquiries by correspondents began to pour in, DNB advised that the report concerned "an event which occurred some time ago at the western front."

However, a report of the same occurrence, dated October 31, was front-paged by early editions of tomorrow's Voelkischer Beobachter, central organ of the Nazi party.

TWO BILLION IS NEEDED TO KEEP NEUTRAL

west were urged on him earlier in the day by Representatives Havenner (D-Calif) and Welch (R-Calif)). Mr. Roosevelt told reporters he had given them kind words.

In this connection Mr. Roosevelt said that for years he had been trying to prevail upon steel companies to build a plant on the west coast and added that since the development of the electric furnace this appeared to be economical.

Senator Sheppard expressed the opinion in an interview that congress would provide the $1,000,000,000 that he estimated would be needed for the army.

He said the program already authorized by congress provided for the purchase of aditional anti-aircraft guns and predicted that funds to carry out this authorization would be included in the appropriations.

Last summer, before the European war broke out, the army's enlisted men numbered about 165,000 and the national guard's force about 190,000. Since then, due partly to congressional appropriations and partly to executive orders by the president, recruiting has been undertaken to bring the army strength to 227,000 and the guard's to 235,000.

It is expected generally that Mr. Roosevelt will propose next session that the army be brought up to the full peace-time strength previously authorized by congress—280,000—and that the guard be increased further to 320,000. This would provide a total force of 600,000.

Justice At Jackson Ordered Arrested

Jackson, Mich., Oct. 31 (AP) Prosecutor Owen Dudley this afternoon authorized a warrant for the arrest of Justice Don H. Thomas on a charge of embezzlement by a public official. A complaint had been authorized unanimously by the board of supervisors in a session today. Thomas said a shortage of $898 in his accounts was an error due to misplaced loose leaf records.

between the Soviet Union and Finland, who has long ago obtained both freedom and political independence from the Soviet Union."

Doesn't Want Islands

Of the negotiations with Finland, he said that the Soviets had urged Finland to agree to a pact similar to those recently concluded with Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania, which gave Russia extensive rights to station troops, warships and planes on the soil of her Baltic neighbors.

Molotoff said Russia "did not insist" on her position when Finland objected. He disclosed that Finnish-Soviet negotiations now have turned to matters concerning the protection of Leningrad, Russia's western metropolis.

After Finland's rejection of the proposed mutual assistance pact, Molotoff said, negotiations were proceeding on Finnish cession of "several dozen kilometers" of soil on the Isthmus of Karelia, north of Leningrad, the lease of a small section of Finnish territory near the entrance to the Gulf of Finland for a Russian naval base, and the exchange of some islands in the Gulf of Finland.

He declared Russia has no designs on the strategic Aaland islands and was not preparing demands on any other nothern nations.

Dr. Juho Kusti Paasikivi, head of Finland's delegation to Russia, is expected here tomorrow for his third visit since Russia and Finland began negotiations.

War Aims "Camouflage"

An indication of what Russia expected was given when Molotoff said "it should be clear that, granted good will, the Finnish government will meet our proposals, which are minimal ones and which — far from militating against the national and state interests of Finland —will enhance her security and form a broad basis for further extensive development of the political and economic relations between our countries."

Referring to the war between Germany "and the Anglo-French bloc," he said the ruling circles of Britain and France have been "lately attempting to depict themselves as champions of the democratic rights of nations against Hitlerism and the British government has announced that its aim in the war with Germany is nothing more nor less than the destruction of Hitlerism."

"It is not only senseless but criminal to wage such a war x x x camouflaged as a fight for 'democracy.'"

Japanese Pact Hinted

Molotoff turned to Japan and declared the agreement concluded in Moscow on Sept. 15 "liquidated" the Russian-Japanese conflict on the Mongolian-Manchoukuoan border and was the first step toward improvement of relations between the two nations.

He said the next step would be formation of a joint frontier commission to examine disputed portions of the border.

"In addition, the possibility has been established of starting Soviet-Japanese trade negotiations," he said.

In negotiations between the Soviet and the Japanese, observers pointed out, questions of fishing rights, and coal and concessions were considered of primary importance.

Molotoff's report was unanimously approved by the delegates, among whom were several from one-time Polish territories now added to the Soviet Union.

BY LYNN HEINZERLING

Helsinki, Nov. 1 (Wednesday) (AP) The Finnish government announced today that publication of Soviet Russia's demands on the republic had "created a new situation" and caused a delay in the negotiations.

The exact effect of the unexpected disclosures by Soviet Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslaff Molotoff in his speech to the Russian parliament yesterday was not clear early today, but it was certain he had profoundly shocked Finnish officials.

It was probable a cabinet meeting would be held today to consider the new situation.

Talks Kept Secret

The communique did not say whether Finland's delegation to Moscow, which left Helsinki last night, would continue its journey or return here for new instructions. The delegation was scheduled to arrive in Leningrad today.

"The Soviet Union has stated they desire to discuss with Finland the questions mentioned by Foreign Commissar Molotoff. By making public the point of view of the Soviet Union at a moment when Finland's plenipotentiaries have just left Helsinki to hand the Soviet government the answer of the Finnish government, Foreign Commissar Molotoff has created a new situation.

"Hitherto the discussions have been confidential and Finland has independently, without pressure from any foreign power whatever and free from prejudice, sought to find a solution of the questions presented her in spite of their difficulty due to the policy of neutrality which Finland has adopted.

"In doing this, it has also been desired by Finland to respect the efforts of the Soviet Union to insure the security of Leningrad without, however, endangering her own safety.

"It is too early to say anything about the extent to which the statements of Commissar Molotoff will affect the standpoint of the Finnish government. In any case his speech has naturally caused delay in continued negotiations.

Firm Refusal Expected

"Commissar Molotoff stated in his speech that the Soviet Union has the right and obligation to take effective measures for protecting its security on the Gulf of Finland and the frontier nearest Leningrad.

"For this reason, the foreign office of Finland states that the Soviet Union in the non-aggression pact entered into with Finland in 1932 undertook to respect the frontier fixed between Finland and the Soviet Union by the peace treaty of Dorpat and to arrange all differences of opinion between their countries by peaceful means. Finland relies on the Soviet Union respecting this agreement, the validity of which was extended to the end of the year 1945 by agreement between Finland and the Soviet Union in the year 1934."

The storm which Molotoff's speech created here was apparent in the almost unprecedented issuance of the communique at 4:30 a. m. (10:30 p. m. E. S. T.).

It was generally expected that the Finnish government for one thing would now place its case before the world with a complete exposition of the hitherto secret negotiations.

Informed political circles were of the opinion that the answer being taken to Moscow was a firm refusal to yield to the Russian territorial demands.

It is not yet known where sprats, fish found in British waters between November and February, go during the rest of the year.

Hallowe'en Brings Little Trouble To Officials Of City

Up to early this morning Hallowe'en hadn't brought much trouble to city officials who were prepared for the worst, although they hoped for the best.

It meant that Chief Michael F. Ettenhofer put in a few extra hours last night at the police station, but the police had only three calls about offending Hallowe'eners up to midnight, and none of them was serious.

There was one false fire alarm, at 11:15 o'clock from box 21, at Second avenue north and Twelfth street.

1,200 ATTEND H. S. CARNIVAL

"Football Follies" and Other Shows Keep Crowd Happy

With senior students guarding the fire alarm buttons everything went off smoothly last night at the seventeenth annual Escanaba high school Hallowe'en Carnival, which brought out a crowd of 1,200 persons. Most of them were high and grade school students, but a liberal number of adults attended, too.

The party was timed to last until 11 o'clock and after that most of the merrymakers went on home to bed and police had a fairly quiet evening.

30 Sideshows

The school was a riot of color and incongruity with Hallowe'en decorations and hundreds of youngsters in Hallowe'en costumes and masks.

Thirty sideshows presented by home rooms and other organizations kept the crowd entertained during the early part of the evening and at 10 o'clock came the awarding of costume prizes, followed by the climax of the program, an "Exhibition Concert by the Henpecked Singing School," presented by the high school Mask and Wig club. Misses Helen Snyder and Bernadette Vernon, faculty sponsors of the club, were in charge of the program which continued for nearly an hour.

Costume prizes went to Daniel Hirn for the funniest; to Warren Cleary for the most original and to four girls who tied for the prettiest, Annette Anderson, Joan L'Heureux, Mary Vinette and Mary Hutte.

Perhaps the most incongruous of all the sights at the carnival was that of a group of huskies of the football team parading in the "Football Follies" all prettied up in fancy, brief costumes, with hairy legs showing.

Miss Menominee Wins

For this show, which drew one of the largest crowds of all, Roy Cress acted as master of ceremonies and Merle Pfotenhauer, team captain, paraded as Miss Menominee; Ray Pepin as Miss Stambaugh; Bob Barron as Miss Man.stique; Jim Davidson as Miss Soo; Leonard Fedrow as Miss Iron Mountain; Roy Arbour as Miss Gladstone, and Bob Shallman as Miss Escanaba.

Miss Menominee won the Follies beauty contest. All the boys kicked their heels in a grand finale to the tune of "Upper Michigan Girl," a number arranged especially for the occasion.

Among other sideshows that drew well was "Curiosity Corners" presented by home room 204, which featured a bottle concert under direction of Bill Kerry and a two-man tin pan band, operated by Charles Sherlock and John Pappajohn.

Other attractions included the "Dogpatch Revue," "Mickey Mouse Movies," "Chamber of Dr. Fu Manchu," "Minstrel Show," "Screwball Scrimmage," "Spectral Spree," "Shoot the Duck," "House of Terrors," "Bazooka Band" and others.

It was all over at 11 o'clock except for the two boys from each home room whose part in making the carnival possible was to sweep up after the show so that classes could go ahead on schedule this morning.

Surgeon Stricken During Operation, Nurse Finishes Job

Dr. E. F. Camp, collapsed just as he had finished the major part of the surgery upon Eddie Huenergardt, two-year-old son of a Selman, Okla., farmer. The child was suffering from a ruptured appendix and double pneumonia.

Mrs. William Finely, attending nurse, promptly stepped in and sewed up the incision. Aiding her was Dr. Camp's wife, Kathleen, who serves as operating room assistant at her husband's small hospital.

Dr. Camp's condition was reported slightly improved but still serious tonight. The boy was reported "fair."

Detroit Executive, W. Hanway, Found Shot In Old Church

Bel Air, Md., Oct. 31 (AP)—In old Rock Spring church alongside the cemetery where members of the Hanway family lie buried, a man identified by state police as William C. Hanway, Detroit corporation executive, was found shot to death today.

Dr. J. H. Ramsey, Hartford county medical examiner, said he had committed suicide. A new shot-gun was found beside the body.

In Detroit, officials of the Freuhauf Trailor Truck company said Hanway resigned yesterday as treasurer of the firm and left the city, leaving no word as to his destination. He had been ill for some time and recently underwent an operation. A son, W. C. Hanway, Jr., is with the Fargo truck division of Chrysler Corp. in Chicago.

A number of Hanway's relatives, including Charles J. Michael of Bel Air—three miles from the church—live in Harford county, Baltimore or Washington. None knew he had left Detroit. Michael identified the body.

Hanway's father, mother and sister all are buried in the cemetery, only a short distance from the old Hanway home.

Justice Department Tangles With Dies

Washington, Oct. 31 (AP)—A star witness of the Dies committee was in the hands of police tonight in connection with a New Orleans killing, while Rep. Dies (D-Tex) angrily lashed out with charges that the department of justice was trying to discredit his committee's evidence.

William C. McCuistion, former seafaring Communist who came here to pin the Communist label on various maritime union leaders, was led away by a police lieutenant at the conclusion of a stormy committee session in which Dies pounded the table and charged that Henry Schweinhaut, assistant attorney general in charge of civil liberties, had gone out of his jurisdiction to have the man taken.

"The whole thing not only smells to high heaven but it stinks," said Rep. Starnes (D-Ala), another committee member. "Details surrounding this procedure are not only sordid, but contemptible."

Starnes seemingly was tossing back words used recently by President Roosevelt, who accused the Dies committee of employing "sordid procedure."

Dies declared that Schweinhaut had telephoned the Washington police department to inquire if they had heard whether New Orleans police wanted the witness in connection with the slaying of Philip Carey, an official of the CIO's national maritime union, on Sept. 17.

The justice department issued a statement asserting that "neither Mr. Schweinhaut nor anyone else" in the department had requested McCuisition's arrest. It explained that Schweinhaut had telephoned the chief of detectives to inquire whether McCuistion was wanted in New Orleans and was informed that he was.

Joseph Curran, who is president of the union and whom McCuistion denounced as a red during a hearing yesterday, had previously tipped the New Orleans police that McCuistion could be found here.

By formal resolution, the committee requested the police to take McCuistion to the civil liberties section of the justice department so that he might tell about "various alleged attempts to intimidate him, to deprive him of his civil rights, by the national maritime union and the communists."

The police said McCuistion would be given that opportunity tomorrow. At today's hearing McCuistion had testified that after he ceased to be a Communist party member several years ago, he was warned to "go down the line" for the party, leave the waterfront, or become a "floater"—waterfront term for a dead man.

Husband Questioned In Stabbing Of Wife At St. Clair Shores

Mt. Clemens, Mich., Oct. 31 (AP)—Herbert C. Patterson, 48-year-old automotive designing engineer, today retraced for police his movements of last Thursday, when his wife, Farrell, was found stabbed to death in their St. Clair Shores home.

Patterson, who rested several hours after a 15-hour conference with state police and Prosecutor Ivan A. Johnston that ended at 7 a. m. today, gave the officers an accounting of the time between the hour he arose and his arrival at the Highland Park laboratory where he is employed.

Patterson said he left his home at 7:40 a. m. Dr. LeMoyne Snyder, medico-legal director of the state police, has tentatively set the time of the playing at between 9 and 9:30 a. m.

Prosecutor Johnston said tonight the taking of voluntary statements from Patterson had been halted until statements already given could be transcribed and studied. The prosecutor indicated he expected no further development before morning unless one of the investigators should come upon some new angle of the case.

Meanwhile a report was awaited on analysis of several articles sent to the state police crime detection laboratory in East Lansing.

Dr. Snyder said he had tested the victim's blood and typed and classified it. The prosecutor stated that stains on the upholstery of Patterson's automobile and the spot in a crease of a newly polished shoe had been analyzed as blood.

Milk House Tipped; Prankster Is Shot By Farmer At Caro

Caro, Mich., Oct. 31 (AP)—Shot in the head while out celebrating Hallowe'en with a group of neighbor children, Francis Diegel, 12, was in a serious condition tonight.

Sheriff George F. Jeffrey of Tuscola county said that Andrew Haight, 24, had fired the shot and was being held in the county jail to await the outcome of the boy's injury. The sheriff said that in a statement to Prosecutor Timothy C. Quinn, Haight had said he fired a shotgun after his milk house had been overturned by pranksters. He said that he thought he had fired over the heads of the fleeing boys but saw one fall and ran to pick him up. He took the boy to Dr. H. A. Barbour at Mayville, who had him taken to St. Luke's hospital at Saginaw.

Peru Fliers Forced Down By Tank Leak Are Safe On Island

Guayaquil, Ecuador, Oct. 31 (AP)—Forced down by the loss of 220 gallons of gasoline while little more than 700 miles from their goal, two Peruvian aviators attempting a non-stop flight from New York to Lima, Peru, were safe tonight on an island 80 miles southwest of Guayaquil.

First word of the brother fliers, Commander Humberto Gal'Lino, of the Peruvian navy, and Captain Victor Gal'Lino, of the Peruvian army, was carried by a peasant to a telegraph office at Posorja, 20 miles from their landing place on a beach at Salinas de Punta Arenas on Puna island.

The plane was not damaged in landing.

Commander Gal'Lino in a message to authorities said the gasoline was lost through a leaky tank. He reported they flew 26 hours and five minutes after leaving New York Sunday afternoon. A tug was dispatched from Guayaquil with 200 gallons of gasoline for the plane in the event a take-off was possible.

MATERIALS TAX LEVY RESCINDED

Contractors Fear They Would Lose Money On Government Jobs

Lansing, Oct. 31 (AP)—The state board of tax administration today rescinded an order which, beginning tomorrow, would have extended the three percent sales levy to materials bought by contractors for use on governmental construction projects.

Representatives of a dozen organizations of contractors appeared at a public hearing to protest the decision. The board agreed not to impose the ruling until it could receive further information from a committee of contractors headed by Henry Reniger of Lansing as to how seriously their business would be affected.

Contractors argued that federal, state and municipal governments—specifically exempt from sales tax payments—would purchase their own supplies if the new ruling were imposed, contracting only for labor. This, they contended, would make a serious dent in their earnings.

Officials of the sales tax division have estimated that the plan to extend the tax to materials used on government projects would yield $1,000,000 a year in revenue. It has been described as an attempt to plug a "loop-hole" in administration of the tax act.

George E. Runyeon, deputy sales tax director, said books of suppliers showed greater sales of materials for public use than records of public projects indicated.

GERMAN TROOPS INVADE FRANCE

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER

Berlin, Oct. 31 (AP)—DNB, official German news agency, late today published a report describing how German scouting troops invaded two hastily-evacuated French villages lying before the Maginot line and returned with war booty.

However, military experts authorized to give information said the report did not come from the high command.

The experts would not even admit that the report was the first evidence of Germans crossing into French territory, saying that at the French-German frontier it often was difficult to know exactly where the boundary line runs, with the result that inquisitive scouting units often get on the other fellow's ground.

(A French high command communique on October 16 said German troops had penetrated momentarily to the French frontier post of Apach.)

Soon after inquiries by correspondents began to pour in, DNB advised that the report concerned "an event which occurred some time ago at the western front."

However, a report of the same occurrence, dated October 31, was front-paged by early editions of tomorrow's Voelkischer Beobachter, central organ of the Nazi party.

TWO BILLION IS NEEDED TO KEEP NEUTRAL

west were urged on him earlier in the day by Representatives Havenner (D-Calif) and Welch (R-Calif)). Mr. Roosevelt told reporters he had given them kind words.

In this connection Mr. Roosevelt said that for years he had been trying to prevail upon steel companies to build a plant on the west coast and added that since the development of the electric furnace this appeared to be economical.

Senator Sheppard expressed the opinion in an interview that congress would provide the $1,000,000,000 that he estimated would be needed for the army.

He said the program already authorized by congress provided for the purchase of aditional anti-aircraft guns and predicted that funds to carry out this authorization would be included in the appropriations.

Last summer, before the European war broke out, the army's enlisted men numbered about 165,000 and the national guard's force about 190,000. Since then, due partly to congressional appropriations and partly to executive orders by the president, recruiting has been undertaken to bring the army strength to 227,000 and the guard's to 235,000.

It is expected generally that Mr. Roosevelt will propose next session that the army be brought up to the full peace-time strength previously authorized by congress—280,000—and that the guard be increased further to 320,000. This would provide a total force of 600,000.

FINNS WARNED NOT TO SPURN SOVIET TERMS

between the Soviet Union and Finland, who has long ago obtained both freedom and political independence from the Soviet Union."

Doesn't Want Islands

Of the negotiations with Finland, he said that the Soviets had urged Finland to agree to a pact similar to those recently concluded with Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania, which gave Russia extensive rights to station troops, warships and planes on the soil of her Baltic neighbors.

Molotoff said Russia "did not insist" on her position when Finland objected. He disclosed that Finnish-Soviet negotiations now have turned to matters concerning the protection of Leningrad, Russia's western metropolis.

After Finland's rejection of the proposed mutual assistance pact, Molotoff said, negotiations were proceeding on Finnish cession of "several dozen kilometers" of soil on the Isthmus of Karelia, north of Leningrad, the lease of a small section of Finnish territory near the entrance to the Gulf of Finland for a Russian naval base, and the exchange of some islands in the Gulf of Finland.

He declared Russia has no designs on the strategic Aaland islands and was not preparing demands on any other nothern nations.

Dr. Juho Kusti Paasikivi, head of Finland's delegation to Russia, is expected here tomorrow for his third visit since Russia and Finland began negotiations.

War Aims "Camouflage"

An indication of what Russia expected was given when Molotoff said "it should be clear that, granted good will, the Finnish government will meet our proposals, which are minimal ones and which — far from militating against the national and state interests of Finland—will enhance her security and form a broad basis for further extensive development of the political and economic relations between our countries."

Referring to the war between Germany "and the Anglo-French bloc," he said the ruling circles of Britain and France have been "lately attempting to depict themselves as champions of the democratic rights of nations against Hitlerism and the British government has announced that its aim in the war with Germany is nothing more nor less than the destruction of Hitlerism."

"It is not only senseless but criminal to wage such a war x x x camouflaged as a fight for 'democracy.'"

Japanese Pact Hinted

Molotoff turned to Japan and declared the agreement concluded in Moscow on Sept. 15 "liquidated" the Russian-Japanese conflict on the Mongolian-Manchoukuoan border and was the first step toward improvement of relations between the two nations.

He said the next step would be formation of a joint frontier commission to examine disputed portions of the border.

"In addition, the possibility has been established of starting Soviet-Japanese trade negotiations," he said.

In negotiations between the Soviet and the Japanese, observers pointed out, questions of fishing rights, and coal and concessions were considered of primary importance.

Molotoff's report was unanimously approved by the delegates, among whom were several from one-time Polish territories now added to the Soviet Union.

BY LYNN HEINZERLING

Helsinki, Nov. 1 (Wednesday) (AP)—The Finnish government announced today that publication of Soviet Russia's demands on the republic had "created a new situation" and caused a delay in the negotiations.

The exact effect of the unexpected disclosures by Soviet Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslaff Molotoff in his speech to the Russian parliament yesterday was not clear early today, but it was certain he had profoundly shocked Finnish officials.

It was probable a cabinet meeting would be held today to consider the new situation.

Talks Kept Secret

The communique did not say whether Finland's delegation to Moscow, which left Helsinki last night, would continue its journey or return here for new instructions. The delegation was scheduled to arrive in Leningrad today.

"The Soviet Union has stated they desire to discuss with Finland the questions mentioned by Foreign Commissar Molotoff. By making public the point of view of the Soviet Union at a moment when Finland's plenipotentiaries have just left Helsinki to hand the Soviet government the answer of the Finnish government, Foreign Commissar Molotoff has created a new situation.

"Hitherto the discussions have been confidential and Finland has independently, without pressure from any foreign power whatever and free from prejudice, sought to find a solution of the questions presented her in spite of their difficulty due to the policy of neutrality which Finland has adopted.

"In doing this, it has also been desired by Finland to respect the efforts of the Soviet Union to insure the security of Leningrad without, however, endangering her own safety.

"It is too early to say anything about the extent to which the statements of Commissar Molotoff will affect the standpoint of the Finnish government. In any case his speech has naturally caused delay in continued negotiations.

Firm Refusal Expected

"Commissar Molotoff stated in his speech that the Soviet Union has the right and obligation to take effective measures for protecting its security on the Gulf of Finland and the frontier nearest Leningrad.

"For this reason, the foreign office of Finland states that the Soviet Union in the non-aggression pact entered into with Finland in 1932 undertook to respect the frontier fixed between Finland and the Soviet Union by the peace treaty of Dorpat and to arrange all differences of opinion between their countries by peaceful means. Finland relies on the Soviet Union respecting this agreement, the validity of which was extended to the end of the year 1945 by agreement between Finland and the Soviet Union in the year 1934."

The storm which Molotoff's speech created here was apparent in the almost unprecedented issuance of the communique at 4:30 a. m. (10:30 p. m. E. S. T.).

It was generally expected that the Finnish government for one thing would now place its case before the world with a complete exposition of the hitherto secret negotiations.

Informed political circles were of the opinion that the answer being taken to Moscow was a firm refusal to yield to the Russian territorial demands.

It is not yet known where sprats, fish found in British waters between November and February, go during the rest of the year.

Hallowe'en Brings Little Trouble To Officials Of City

Up to early this morning Hallowe'en hadn't brought much trouble to city officials who were prepared for the worst, although they hoped for the best.

It meant that Chief Michael F. Ettenhofer put in a few extra hours last night at the police station, but the police had only three calls about offending Hallowe'eners up to midnight, and none of them was serious.

There was one false fire alarm, at 11:15 o'clock from box 21, at Second avenue north and Twelfth street.

1,200 ATTEND H. S. CARNIVAL

"Football Follies" and Other Shows Keep Crowd Happy

With senior students guarding the fire alarm buttons everything went off smoothly last night at the seventeenth annual Escanaba high school Hallowe'en Carnival, which brought out a crowd of 1,200 persons. Most of them were high and grade school students, but a liberal number of adults attended, too.

The party was timed to last until 11 o'clock and after that most of the merrymakers went on home to bed and police had a fairly quiet evening.

30 Sideshows

The school was a riot of color and incongruity with Hallowe'en decorations and hundreds of youngsters in Hallowe'en costumes and masks.

Thirty sideshows presented by home rooms and other organizations kept the crowd entertained during the early part of the evening and at 10 o'clock came the awarding of costume prizes, followed by the climax of the program, an "Exhibition Concert by the Henpecked Singing School." presented by the high school Mask and Wig club. Misses Helen Snyder and Bernadette Vernon, faculty sponsors of the club, were in charge of the program which continued for nearly an hour.

Costume prizes went to Daniel Hirn for the funniest; to Warren Cleary for the most original and to four girls who tied for the prettiest, Annette Anderson, Joan L'Heureux, Mary Vinette and Mary Hutte.

Perhaps the most incongruous of all the sights at the carnival was that of a group of huskies of the football team parading in the "Football Follies" all prettied up in fancy, brief costumes, with hairy legs showing.

Miss Menominee Wins

For this show, which drew one of the largest crowds of all, Roy Cress acted as master of ceremonies and Merle Pfotenhauer, team captain, paraded as Miss Menominee; Ray Pepin as Miss Stambaugh; Bob Barron as Miss Manistique; Jim Davidson as Miss Soo; Leonard Fedrow as Miss Iron Mountain; Roy Arbour as Miss Gladstone, and Bob Shallman as Miss Escanaba.

Miss Menominee won the Follies beauty contest. All the boys kicked their heels in a grand finale to the tune of "Upper Michigan Girl," a number arranged especially for the occasion.

Among other sideshows that drew well was "Curiosity Corners" presented by home room 204, which featured a bottle concert under direction of Bill Kerry and a two-man tin pan band, operated by Charles Sherlock and John Pappajohn.

MATERIALS TAX LEVY RESCINDED

Contractors Fear They Would Lose Money On Government Jobs

Lansing, Oct. 31 (AP)—The state board of tax administration today rescinded an order which, beginning tomorrow, would have extended the three percent sales levy to materials bought by contractors for use on governmental construction projects.

Representatives of a dozen organizations of contractors appeared at a public hearing to protest the decision. The board agreed not to impose the ruling until it could receive further information from a committee of contractors headed by Henry Reniger of Lansing as to how seriously their business would be affected.

Contractors argued that federal, state and municipal governments—specifically exempt from sales tax payments—would purchase their own supplies if the new ruling were imposed, contracting only for labor. This, they contended, would make a serious dent in their earnings.

Officials of the sales tax division have estimated that the plan to extend the tax to materials used on government projects would yield $1,000,000 a year in revenue. It has been described as an attempt to plug a "loop-hole" in administration of the tax act.

George E. Runyeon, deputy sales tax director, said books of suppliers showed greater sales of materials for public use than records of public projects indicated.

ADDITIONAL RABIES ANGLES
By Huell Patterson

There are indications that pressure will be put on the Government to take a hand in the rabies situation. The Department of Agriculture, through its licensing of vaccines, has power to act and demands are increasing that it put a stop to the distribution of anti-rabic vaccine. This is a reason for veterinarians to act first.

The plight of dog breeders who find their normal markets taken away through rabies scares is not so easy of solution. The mere talk of rabies frightens many people to the point where they do not look at the situation logically. They do not take into account that rabies is not a disease of pure-bred dogs. That, of course, is not because the pure-bred is immune.

He is not. But rabies can only be spread through a bite and the pure-bred dog is ordinarily kept under control. The person who pays a good price for a dog does not simply let him run loose to fend for himself.

As a matter of fact the whole rabies business has been terribly overdone, thanks to the rabies racketeers. The disease does exist, but it is nowhere near so prevalent as some persons would have us believe. Furthermore, in both dogs and humans there is a very high degree of natural immunity.

Only a percentage—many who have studied the disease believe the percentage decidedly small — of persons or dogs bitten by a rabid dog can contract the disease.

In some places the swing of the pendulum has resulted in the raising of restrictions that have been in force. In New Jersey, which early this year provided a good example of rabies hysteria, the quarantine is being lifted. The State Department removed the quarantine in five counties.

It is not correct to imply that the action of New Jersey officials in imposing the quarantine was hysterical. It was precautionary and simply required that dogs should not be allowed to run at large. The hysteria was supplied either by well-meaning persons who knew little about the disease, or by those who, from selfish motives wished to see vaccination extended.

Persons who buy a good dog. from those kennels which guarantee the health of the animals they sell, have virtually no chance of being brought in contact with rabies.

Electric Power Parley At Houghton Nov. 9

Houghton—Only ten days remain before the Upper Peninsula Electric Power conference opens a three-day session at the Michigan College of Mining and Technology on Thursday, November 9.

On the program are thirteen technical talks by as many expert engineers, movies describing electrical equipment, group discussions, laboratory and lecture demonstrations, and a dinner during which short talks will be presented.

An attendance of more than 100 persons is expected.

The 1930 conference, second in the series of such meetings, is held to bring together representative of power companies and municipalities — chiefly of the upper peninsula, and Michigan Tech faculty members and students, for the purpose of exchanging ideas pertaining to the electrical profession.

The first conference, held at Michigan Tech in October, 1937, proved so popular that it was decided to make the session a periodic event.

This year, as in 1937, the conference will be held under the chairmanship of Professor Swenson of the Tech department of electrical engineering.

Professor Swenson will be assisted by an advisory committee consisting of Albert Hoyle of Iron Mountain, Wisconsin-Michigan Power company; Hugo Lillquist, superintendent of the Escanaba Light company; John Ralph of the Houghton County Electric Light company; and Charles Retallic, superintendent of the light department of the City of Marquette. These men, together with J. W. Perry of the bureau of government, University of Michigan, also comprised the advisory board of the 1937 conference.

Michigan In Washington

Esther Van Wagoner Tufty

Now that the neutrality debate has shifted from the Senate to the House, our Michigan representatives who have been hibernating or back home politicking, have joined the Old Faithfuls on the Floor.

The House debate is far different from the Senate debate which ended in a 63 to 30 vote for repeal. Senators can talk as long as they can stand to listen to themselves, but the House members are limited by the Rules Committee. So taks are shorter and promise to be louder and funnier.

Of course, House members could have made speeches during the past month of senate debate —as did Congressman Albert J. Engel, of Muskegon—but they could not talk directly to the bill not then in final Senate form. Besides what is the fun when the galleries are empty and only a handful keep up the pretense that the House is in session?

It is not as easy to predict how Michigan's 17 congressmen in the House will vote as it was in the Senate where Arthur H. Vandenberg made what is generally recognized as the best speech for keeping the arms embargo and Senator Prentiss M. Brown's plea for repeal will long be remembered for its stinging reprimand to Col. Lindbergh.

The majority of our congressmen themselves believe that the vote will line up the Republicans against the administration-Senate approved bill, with not more than one or possibly two exceptions. The only doubtfuls mentioned, on the Republican side, are Carl E. Mapes, of Grand Rapids, dean of the delegation, and Clarence J. McLeod, who represents a Detroit district partly blue-stocking and partly foreign born. On the Democratic side, the not-so-sure voters for repeal are still Dr. Rudolph Tenerowicz and Louis A. Rabaut, both of Detroit.

Of course, no one knows what changes the House may manage to put into the bill, but certainly the heart, the arms embargo repeal, will not be changed. As Congressman Paul Shafer, Battle Creek Republican says, "Many of us could go a long with the improved Senate bill—except for the all-important arms embargo provision."

Sober-thinking Earl C. Michener, Adrian Republican, praises high the Senate debate. It's full airing of the issue has adequately informed the public, says Michener, who thanks the abundance of debate for a better bill, free of credit privileges and Presidential discretionary power provisions.

But more importantly, he says, the Senators were put on the spot and forced flatly to state they would not vote for war.

The late evening vote on the Neutrality bill in the Senate prevented Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg catching the afternoon plane to Michigan, where he had hoped to attend President Ruthven's 10th anniversary dinner at the University of Michigan. If he had caught the plane, he could have chatted with his friendly enemy Attorney General Frank Murphy, also headed for Ann Arbor.

No other Washington dignitaries were especially invited-even Senator Prentiss M. Brown or Congressman Earl C. Michener who represents the Ann Arbor area in the House.

Senator Brown, however, was hoping for an early vote just as ardently as Senator Vandenberg, for he had planned with Mrs. Brown to drive all night, if necessary, to make the Michigan-Yale game on Saturday.

Michigan delegations frequently descend on Washington but the "Mothers of America" from Detroit was something different. All set to storm Senator Prentiss Brown's office, they were stopped abruptly at the entrance of the Senate office building by a Capitol Cop. A ruling forbids more than five to stampede a senator but Senator Brown told the police to let them all come in at once. The cop agreed but stood guard. Brown gave them all the time and consideration they asked — and they gave him the fireworks. They interrupted each other. They applauded each other—and even once in awhile the senator. Only three of the 37 bothered to visit Senator Vandenberg since he was committed to their cause to keep the embargo.

Congressman Earl C. Michener, Veteran member of the House Judiciary committee, has been named by Speaker Bankhead on the special committee set up to arrange a fitting ceremony for the 150th anniversary of the Supreme Court.

Of course, House members could have made speeches during the past month of senate debate —as did Congressman Albert J. Engel, of Muskegon—but they could not talk directly to the bill not then in final Senate form. Besides what is the fun when the galleries are empty and only a handful keep up the pretense that the House is in session?

It is not as easy to predict how Michigan's 17 congressmen in the House will vote as it was in the Senate where Arthur H. Vandenberg made what is generally recognized as the best speech for keeping the arms embargo and Senator Prentiss M. Brown's plea for repeal will long be remembered for its stinging reprimand to Col. Lindbergh.

The majority of our congressmen themselves believe that the vote will line up the Republicans against the administration-Senate approved bill, with not more than one or possibly two exceptions. The only doubtfuls mentioned, on the Republican side, are Carl E. Mapes, of Grand Rapids, dean of the delegation, and Clarence J. McLeod, who represents a Detroit district partly blue-stocking and partly foreign born. On the Democratic side, the not-so-sure voters for repeal are still Dr. Rudolph Tenerowicz and Louis A. Rabaut, both of Detroit.

Of course, no one knows what changes the House may manage to put into the bill, but certainly the heart, the arms embargo repeal, will not be changed. As Congressman Paul Shafer, Battle Creek Republican says, "Many of us could go a long with the improved Senate bill—except for the all-important arms embargo provision."

Sober-thinking Earl C. Michener, Adrian Republican, praises high the Senate debate. It's full airing of the issue has adequately informed the public, says Michener, who thanks the abundance of debate for a better bill, free of credit privileges and Presidential discretionary power provisions.

But more importantly, he says, the Senators were put on the spot and forced flatly to state they would not vote for war.

The late evening vote on the Neutrality bill in the Senate prevented Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg catching the afternoon plane to Michigan, where he had hoped to attend President Ruthven's 10th anniversary dinner at the University of Michigan. If he had caught the plane, he could have chatted with his friendly enemy Attorney General Frank Murphy, also headed for Ann Arbor.

No other Washington dignitaries were especially invited-even Senator Prentiss M. Brown or Congressman Earl C. Michener who represents the Ann Arbor area in the House.

Senator Brown, however, was hoping for an early vote just as ardently as Senator Vandenberg, for he had planned with Mrs. Brown to drive all night, if necessary, to make the Michigan-Yale game on Saturday.

Michigan delegations frequently descend on Washington but the "Mothers of America" from Detroit was something different. All set to storm Senator Prentiss Brown's office, they were stopped abruptly at the entrance of the Senate office building by a Capitol Cop. A ruling forbids more than five to stampede a senator—but Senator Brown told the police to let them all come in at once. The cop agreed but stood guard. Brown gave them all the time and consideration they asked — and they gave him the fireworks. They interrupted each other. They applauded each other—and even once in awhile the senator. Only three of the 37 bothered to visit Senator Vandenberg since he was committed to their cause to keep the embargo.

Congressman Earl C. Michener, Veteran member of the House Judiciary committee, has been named by Speaker Bankhead on the special committee set up to arrange a fitting ceremony for the 150th anniversary of the Supreme Court.

Return From Trip

Grand Marais, Mich.—The ten agricultural students and instructor, Superintendent L. Keith Cheney, who made the trip to the Upper Peninsula Potato Show at Iron Mountain returned Thursday night. After competing in the judging and grading contests in the forenoon, the group made a sightseeing tour which included the water pump of the Chapin mine, the largest in the world, which has a capacity of 3000 gallons per minute from a depth of 1500 feet. The group also went up the Pine Mountain Drive and saw the world's longest ski slide. The trip over was made by way of Manistique and Escanaba and the return trip by way of Ishpeming and Marquette. Returns from the contests will be announced later by Mr. George Gilbert, assistant superintendent of Public Instruction of Marquette, who was in charge.

ADDITIONAL RABIES ANGLES
By Buell Patterson

There are indications that pressure will be put on the Government to take a hand in the rabies situation. The Department of Agriculture, through its licensing of vaccines, has power to act and demands are increasing that it put a stop to the distribution of anti-rabic vaccine. This is a reason for veterinarians to act first.

The plight of dog breeders who find their normal markets taken away through rabies scares is not so easy of solution. The mere talk of rabies frightens many people to the point where they do not look at the situation logically. They do not take into account that rabies is not a disease of pure-bred dogs. That, of course, is not because the pure-bred is immune.

He is not. But rabies can only be spread through a bite and the pure-bred dog is ordinarily kept under control. The person who pays a good price for a dog does not simply let him run loose to fend for himself.

As a matter of fact the whole rabies business has been terribly overdone, thanks to the rabies racketeers. The disease does exist, but it is nowhere near so prevalent as some persons would have us believe. Furthermore, in both dogs and humans there is a very high degree of natural immunity.

Only a percentage—many who have studied the disease believe the percentage decidedly small — of persons or dogs bitten by a rabid dog can contract the disease.

In some places the swing of the pendulum has resulted in the raising of restrictions that have been in force. In New Jersey, which early this year provided a good example of rabies hysteria, the quarantine is being lifted. The State Department removed the quarantine in five counties.

It is not correct to imply that the action of New Jersey officials in imposing the quarantine was hysterical. It was precautionary and simply required that dogs should not be allowed to run at large. The hysteria was supplied either by well-meaning persons who knew little about the disease, or by those who, from selfish motives wished to see vaccination extended.

Persons who buy a good dog, from those kennels which guarantee the health of the animals they sell, have virtually no chance of being brought in contact with rabies.

Here and There

ONE of the Upper Peninsula's most active boosters for aviation is H. P. Westervelt, who is president of the Menominee chapter of the National Aeronautics association. Westervelt spends considerable time in attending conferences on aviation matters in various parts of the country. He personally made the arrangements for the Upper Peninsula Air Tour Tour held this fall, and just last week he attended a N. A. A. conference in Chicago. He reports that the conference went on record as requesting Congress to appropriate an additional $5,000,000 for extension of air mail service and also $25,000,000 for the construction and maintenance of airports under a federal aid program. Principal objective of the efforts of Mr. Westervelt and other air-minded citizens of the Upper Peninsula is the projection of air mail service northward from Milwaukee to Menominee, Escanaba and Marquette.

Germany's stupidity in the last World War in committing acts that aroused resentment against her in this country is being reenacted in the handling of the City of Flint affair. The Nazis already have more ships than they can use under the British blockade program. The seizure cannot be viewed as a warning to American ships not to engage in contraband trade for Congress is now more likely than ever to pass a cash-and-carry law. The material gain from the seizure of the City of Flint will not compensate Germany for the loss of good will that will be suffered.

The bad effects of the stifling of foreign commerce during times of war are being felt locally in the German government's holding up of a cargo of sulphite destined from Esthonia to the Escanaba Paper company at Groos. The last World War brought American industries a flood of orders that caused them to greatly expand their plants, but when the conflict was over the manufacturers found themselves with much idle machinery. Wartime prosperity is never lasting and it always causes severe dislocations of the economic system from which the country and its people suffer for years afterward. It is no wonder that the National Manufacturers association were quick recently to announce to the public that its members are not eager for war profits and would much prefer the normal trade they enjoy when the world is at peace.

The lurid crime magazines, no doubt, will pounce upon the exciting escapades of Indiana's flying Lochinvar, who shot a flying instructor to death recently while flying over Missouri, as hot copy for their readers. The unusual incident has all the elements of reader interest that those publications are anxious to have. Incidentally, the slaying in mid-air recalls the tragic death of Len Koenecke, former Escanaba baseball player, who engaged in a quarrel with an airplane pilot. Intending to knock the major league player unconscious so that he could bring his plane down safely, the pilot struck him with a wrench, the blow causing his death.

Ambitious plans for the holiday shopping season were made by Escanaba merchants, joined for concerted action as members of the retail division of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce. Special editions of the Escanaba Daily Press will be issued to advertise the merchandise bargains over Escanaba's large trade territory. Escanaba's development as a busy shopping center has been largely due to the cooperative sales campaign launched under the leadership of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce.

Cooperating with the efforts to make the Escanaba shopping district more attractive, the city administration is going ahead with plans to brighten up Ludington street. Illumination will be increased by one-third through the installation of new lighting equipment. In addition to enhancing the appearance of the thoroughfare, the better lighting program also is expected to justify the additional expense involved through the promotion of traffic safety.

Reforming a City

THE federal government's campaign to free Kansas City completely from any vestige of the Tom Pendergast machine goes on with results that must be gratifying to every citizen of the middle western metropolis. Both federal and county grand jures have worked incessantly to clean up the loose ends since the Big Boss himself was packed off to the penitentiary last May. The federal jury has just retired after a fruitful session.

Besides Pendergast, three of the top-ranking men in the old machine have been sentenced to jail terms, and indictments against several more have been returned. Dozens of minor figures, gamblers, narcotic peddlers and vice leaders, have been sentenced or driven from the city. Former City Manager H. F. McElroy died just as the federal grand jury was looking into his income tax accounts.

Not only Kansas City but all of America breaths a sigh of vast relief every time the disintegrated political machine of corruption is given another blow. Crooked political bosses are a threat to the very core of democracy. Their kind has no place among a people whose basic philosophy rejects the concept of dictatorship in any form-nationwide or local.

Congress Sees a Movie

THERE was consternation in Washington the other day when congressmen and newspaper correspondents got around to realizing the full import of a current film ("Mr. Smith Goes to Washington") portraying the capital scene. It dawned upon both groups that they were being laughed at with loud guffaws and that their dignity had been ruffled.

Some congressmen were especially indignant—and said so in censorable language. The hero of the piece, they said, was a wee bit wild. Perhaps they forgot the late lamented Huey P. Long and Marion Zioncheck. Furthermore, the congressmen thought, the hero was inordinately dumb. No one, they said, could be named to their august body if he were as naive as Hollywood's conception of a senator. On that point alone, thousands of citizens can be found who would be willing to put up a stiff debate.

Maybe the film isn't exactly an authentic record. But it is good, clean, American fun. If any group has a right to get sore, it is the newspapers. The scenes showing a political boss running the newspapers of an entire state simply by talking over a telephone are fanciful in the extreme. But the newspapers aren't howling. Instead, they're grinning at the film as another sample of Hollywood's handiwork—not all kosher, maybe, but a spirited bit of entertainment. And in these terrible times, it's important that no one lose his sense of humor.

Housing Again

ATTY.-GEN. FRANK MURPHY has again called attention to the housing problem in this country. At a time when building costs are high, any proposals to alleviate poor housing among low-income groups are worthy of appraisal.

Murphy suggests that the inability of the building industry to meet the needs of low-income groups may be partly attributed to the existence of "bidding rings" among less scrupulous contractors and obstruction tactics of a few union leaders. If either charge is true, certainly it is time for action.

"It goes without saying," the attorney-general explains, "that this is not intended either as an attack on the union's basic right of collective bargaining or on business."

Most union leaders, certainly, do not care to impede legitimate construction in any way. Neither do most contractors countenance unlawful collusion. Both groups will want to hear more of this investigation. Both will insist on prompt prosecution if the charges are proven true.

THE HIGH PRICE OF MILK
(Christian Science Monitor)

As the result of an investigation by Fortune Magazine, the $3,500,000,000-a-year milk industry in the United States is faced with statistical data tending to prove that milk prices could be reduced as much as 4 cents a quart in most cities and still produce a reasonable profit for farmer and distributor. The importance of the study is not that of raising new questions, but rather of re-emphasizing and supporting long-standing conclusions dairy experts to the effect that milk distributing systems are costly relics of horse-and-buggy days.

That the milk enigma is not one of those incurable ills of the time is currently found in the practice of modernized methods where the law allows retailing of milk at the lower price levels obtained through sound business organizations. Fortune's contention is that certain economic adjustments of no violent character, if made by milk distributors, could effect a reduction in milk prices, say from 12½ cents a quart to 9 or 10 cents, without lowering farm income. And its figures show the 1938 milk price index at 91, compared with a cost-of-living index at 83, food at 78.9, clothing 82.3, and rent 69.5.

Some pertinent question are: Why are stores in some cities compelled by law to sell milk at the same price as delivered milk when they would gladly charge 1 to 2 cents a quart less? Why is it that one large chain store, which claims to be able to reduce its milk price by four cents and still make a profit, is forced by law to maintain price levels in keeping with other distributing systems? Why does the law in some States insist that milk sold in paper containers must cost one cent more a quart than in bottles even though milk-container dealers say their production costs are on a par with glass bottles?

Milk prices appear to be gauged almost wholly upon costs of doorstep delivery, a service millions of consumers are unable to afford. As one of the Nation's basic industries, the milk industry affects the living economy of the entire Nation. Yet it still falls far short of its potential value to the Nation in employment, consumption and productivity, largely due to high prices. Federal supervision has already been required to assure to farmers a fair share of the consumer's dollar. But there is yet opportunity for private enterprise to prove that it can check its own failures without further prodding from Uncle Sam.

A LITTLE MORE SKEPTICISM
(New York Times)

Dr. Jean Walker Mackarlane has been studying children and their intelligence quotients for some time, however, at the University of California; and she has learned that the rating given at 20 months, say, may be quite different from that earned at two or ten years. She knows of cases in which the I. Q. figure changed a hundred points as various environmental pressures were brought to bear; she can remember a two-year-old who dazzled his parents with an I. Q. of 180 and has been going down ever since, having checked at a mere 120 on the last test.

The moral is obvious: The I. Q. tests prove something, no doubt, but nothing very extensive and nothing necessarily permanent. And the I. Q. testers might well be asked to qualify for their work by an I. Q. measurement which would test, among other things, the amount of skepticism with which they view the I. Q. tests.

World Affairs Reviewed

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C. — Although Italy lays claim to some of the oldest citiés in the world ,it now is the proud possessor of one of the youngest. This city of only a few months is Carbonia, Sardinia. Indeed it is a town of only a few thousand inhabitants, but its importance to the industrial life of Italy gives it a commanding rank. Moreover, it has brought to public attention one of the least known islands of the world.

Carbonia is Italy's newest and best coal bin, and it is for this reason that the new village is important. A recently discovered coal mine gave rise to the thriving village, and the mine's 60,000 tons of coal gives promise of a larger output, while the made-to-order village to house workers already contains a city hall, hospital, and theatre. The town's recently erected house of worship is dedicated to the Roman Bishop, San Ponziani, who, exiled to Sardinia more than 1600 years ago, was forced to work in mines then operating there.

Coal mines discovered nearly 2000 years ago in the locality of Carbonia were worked to what was considered exhaustion. However, in recent years Italy has been hard pressed for many natural resources, coal being one of these. Geologists under instructions from Premier Mussolini have been delving into the possibilities of all old mining centers. Their find of a mine at Carbonia has been not only the means of building a city, but has heartened industrial Italy.

Sardinia is an Italian possession in the Mediterranean Sea. It is about 160 miles in length and 28 miles wide, with a population of approximately 1,000,000. From the name of this island the familiar word sardine came into use on the North American continent. Few sardines, however, come to these shores from that little-known part of the world.

Mineral deposits of iron, copper, and silver attracted Phoenician colonists to Sardinia long before the birth of Christ. Later the Romans came and made this island on the the Mediterranean granaries that fed the Empire's armies and citizenry.

The age of Sardinia is not known, but it is believed that a race of people lived there before the Phoenicians. Prehistoric monuments indicate that a civilization lived on the island probably during the Bronze Age, for on the area are several thousand towers still standing, built by a people whose architecture cannot be identified.

Sardinia's geographic location along the path of Mediterranean exploration and conquest gave it an inevitable role in the continuous drama of war and exploitation that followed. The Byzantines captured it from the Romans and held it until the tenth century. In this period the Saracens took possession but were later driven out by the Pisans. Old churches there show strong influence of these people. The Pisans surrendered to Genoa, and then to James II of Aragon. The capital was surrendered in 1708 to the English, but in the War of Spanish Succession the island was granted to Austria in 1713 under the Peace of Utrecht. In 1720 it passed to the Duke of Savoy, who took the title of king. Sardinia was united politically with Piedmont from 1848 until 1861, when Victor Emmanuel II became King of United Italy.

—STRATEGIC LOCATION—

The strategic location of Sardinia brings it more and more into the spotlight of European affairs. About 125 miles west of the nearest point of Italy, it is one of the stepping-stones between Africa and Europe. It is only seven and one-half miles south of Corsica, and not much more than a hundred miles north of Tunisia, both of which French possessions have been lately in news headlines as Italian objectives.

Generally mountainous, Sardinia turns a granite back on the mother country to the east. In the west are volcanic uplands. The island has few rivers of consequence, and these shrivel in dry seasons and swell to torrents with prolonged rains. More extreme than on the mainland, the climate is known for its hot, dry summers and harsh, wet winters. Italy has never considered Sardinia a valuable asset, but since the island is now producing coal, and has other mineral possibilities which are being explored; it is being looked upon by Mussolini with just pride.

Both man and beast of Sardinia are small in stature. Unusually small are the local donkeys, as well as native Sardinian cattle. The very character of the islanders, stern and uncompromising, is often laid to their harsh, rocky surroundings, which have served as a wall not only against outside influences, but against the transfer of language and customs from one side of the island to the other. The language used is made up of five or six dialects. It is a mixture of Latin, Spanish, and Italian, with traces of other languages. Italian, however, is the predominant tongue and is taught in the public schools.

But despite a stern disposition, the Sards are generous, hospitable, and honorable. Politeness is carried almost to extreme. Hospitality is akin to a religious zeal, and to refuse a cup of coffee or other beverage when visiting in a home is considered an act of discourtesy.

A reader can get the answer to any question of fact by writing The Escanaba Daily Press Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. Please enclose three (3) cents for reply.

Q. How was the body of the Unknown Soldier brought to the United States? E. T. H.

A. The U.S.S. Olympic brought the body from the port of Havre, France, to the United States. Upon its arrival in Washington the body was taken to the Capitol and the catafalque placed in the rotunda where the Unknown Soldier lay in state on November 10, 1921. Many organizations and individuals brought or sent floral offerings to be placed in the rotunda at that time. The burial took place at Arlington National Cemetery on Armistic Day, 1921.

Q. Is there any animal which weighs as much at birth as an elephant? M. J. D.

Q. Did Sherlock Holmes have a brother? M. J. K.

A. The detective had a brother named Mycroft, who was seven years his junior. He is introduced in "The Greek Interpreter."

Q. What is the origin of the term "pin money"? L. R. M.

A. After the invention of pins, and while they were still very scarce and valuable, the maker was permitted to sell them in open shop only on two days of each year—January 1 and 2. It was then that the court ladies flocked to buy them, having been first provided with money for the purpose by the men of their families. This money came to be known as "pin money." Later, when pins became cheap, women applied this allowance to other fancies, but the term has remained in use.

Short takes: A Massachusetts women's club has protested the showing of pictures in which any divorced actor or actress is featured. Imagine never seeing anything but animated cartoons!

An actor from Down Under came to Hollywood and soon managed to crash a producer's office to ask for a job. "How long you been here from Australia?" asked the executive suspiciously. The applicant said about two weeks.

"Outside experience?—Broadway or London, may be?" No, confessed the actor, this was his first trip away from home.

"You're a phony!—Get out!" yelled the producer. "Trying to tell me you are only two weeks here from Australia when already you speak as good English as me!"

Lynn Overman was complaining about the hardships of an actor's life. "Just in my last picture," he said, "there was a big fight and a flood and a hurricane. I sure earned my salary on that one. Why, my double is still in the hospital!"

A snooper on the Sonja Henie set looked into the skater's dressing room and saw her in the arms of Robert Cummings. If he'd stuck around, though, he would have heard Director Irving Cummins say, "That's no good, Bob; it doesn't look as if you mean it." . . . At Metro, Spencer Tracy and Hedy Lamarr are still busy with the many new scenes for "I Take This Woman," the picture that once was shelved. Tracy thinks it ought to be titled, "I Retake This Woman."

TRACY, ROONEY IN EDISON FILM

Marquee sign of the week is an abbreviation of "The Private Lives of Elizabeth and Essex"—to "LIZ & SEX." . . . The new Virginia Weidler flicker, prepared under the title, "Looking After Sandy," filmed as "Patsy" and then rechristened "The Runaway," is being released as "Bad Little Angel."

Tracy and Mickey Rooney are to star in a film biography of Thomas Edison, but it isn't a co-starring job—they'll do separate pictures, concurrently, about the boyhood and adult life of the inventor . . . Charles Laughton has decided to bring his London production unit over here for the war's duration . . . Charles Chaplin has switched his role in "The Dictator" from tailor to barber; gives him more opportunity for comedy business. And Paulette Goddard has the part of a Jewish laundress.

We hope and we trust that existing wars will terminate quickly; and if that is our hope, there is all the more reason for all of us to make ready . . . for the solution of the problem of the refugee.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN

Washington—To the general public, war developments and the neutrality battle in Congress have combined to blackout the group of important municipal elections next Tuesday. But not to party leaders, who are watching them with intense interest as significant indicators of the political winds.

Attentionis chiefly focused on three elections in three key sections of the country—the East, Midwest, and Pacific Coast. Each is a contest of a liberal Democrat against an entrenched Republican regime.

In the East the battleground is rock-ribbed Republican Philadelphia, where Judge Robert E. Lamberton, hand-picked candidate of Joseph Pew, oil-millionaire boss of the local GOP, is opposed by Democratic City Controller Robert C. White on a reform platform backed by some independent Republicans. Many years of machine rule have bankrupted the city—last year it had to hock its municipal gas plant to raise operating funds—and White is demanding a new deal in local affairs.

The major Midwest contest is in Detroit, between Republican Mayor Richard Reading and Edward J. Jefferies, a new young Democratic crusader. Thirty-six years old, son of a prominent Democrat who sat on the State bench for 30 years, Jefferies led Reading by better than 5-to-2 in a non-partisan primary early last month. Jefferies is personable and dynamic, and is being groomed by state Democratic chiefs to go after Senator Arthur Vandenberg's scalp next year.

The important West Coast fight is in San Francisco, where veteran Mayor Rossi is being challenged by Representative Frank Havenner, one-time water power crusader, one-time secretary to Senator Hiram Johnson, and staunch New Dealer. Havenner has the backing of all labor factions plus reform elements.

—NO NUT—

For several days William Farish, president of giant Standard Oil of New Jersey, had listened to independent producers and retailers tell the monopoly committee about their difficulties with the big oil corporations.

After one particularly hot session, Farish remarked to SEC Commissioner Leon Henderson, "When you going to stop putting those nut witnesses on the stand?"

"Why not?" demanded Farish.

"Because he's got $2,000,000. And, Mr. Farish, you wouldn't call anyone who can make that much money a nut, would you?"

—"MOUNTAIN JUSTICE"—

The openly hostile House committee investigating the National Labor Relations Board has held no public hearings as yet, but already it has given the agency a taste of the "mountain justice" it can expect when the proceedings do get under way.

One of the first things Edmund J. Toland, general counsel of the committee, did was to seize the files and records of the union of NLRB employees. An independent organization, the union made no complaint, although it has nothing to do with the affairs of the Board. But after a month had rolled by and its papers and books still were unreturned, union officials found themselves in an embarrassing situation.

They couldn't pay bills, act on grievances by members, or transact any other routine business. Toland had their files and flatly refused either to release them or allow them to be photostated.

Finally, in an effort to obtain a few dollars for some pressing accounts, George Koplow, union treasurer, asked to be allowed to draw a $15 check. After some wrangling, W. J. Shaughnessy, one of Toland's assistants, agreed provided Koplow signed the following paper:

"I, George Koplow, having been granted permission to make out a check for $15 for petty cash disbursements as treasurer of the National Labor Relations Board union, do hereby agree to furnish a full accounting of same within two weeks of date. Said permission is granted by W. J. Shaughnessy, investigator-attorney of the committee, to whom said accounting is to be made."

This obvious attempt to harass the the union was too much for Robert Condon, union president, who accompanied Koplow. He indignantly rejected the demand and threatened to carry the matter to friendly Congressmen. At this Toland hastily back-tracked, returning the union's records after photostating them.

Note—Prior to his appointment as committee counsel, Toland represented a number of big corporations in anti-union cases before the NLRB. He also was attorney for several labor-detective outfits.

HOLDING A SEAT

Craning your neck,
Straining your eyes,
Scanning the stands,
Searching the skies!
Turning and twisting
You stand and sit,
Over and over
You hanker to quit,
But "Never!" you cry,
"No such defeat!"
With your life and a lunch
You are holding a seat!

You don't dare to leave,
You can't walk around,
Already ten people
Have quizzed you and frowned —
Five hundred more
Will demand that chair,
But you hold your ground
With your fists and a prayer.
And SHE don't ever come
Till the very last beat,
When with life and lunch

Here and There

ONE of the Upper Peninsula's most active boosters for aviation is H. P. Westervelt, who is president of the Menominee chapter of the National Aeronautics association. Westervelt spends considerable time in attending conferences on aviation matters in various parts of the country. He personally made the arrangements for the Upper Peninsula Air Tour Tour held this fall, and just last week he attended a N. A. A. conference in Chicago. He reports that the conference went on record as requesting Congress to appropriate an additional $5,000,000 for extension of air mail service and also $25,000,000 for the construction and maintenance of airports under a federal aid program. Principal objective of the efforts of Mr. Westervelt and other air-minded citizens of the Upper Peninsula is the projection of air mail service northward from Milwaukee to Menominee, Escanaba and Marquette.

Germany's stupidity in the last World War in committing acts that aroused resentment against her in this country is being reenacted in the handling of the City of Flint affair. The Nazis already have more ships than they can use under the British blockade program. The seizure cannot be viewed as a warning to American ships not to engage in contraband trade for Congress is now more likely than ever to pass a cash-and-carry law. The material gain from the seizure of the City of Flint will not compensate Germany for the loss of good will that will be suffered.

The bad effects of the stifling of foreign commerce during times of war are being felt locally in the German government's holding up of a cargo of sulphite destined from Esthonia to the Escanaba Paper company at Groos. The last World War brought American industries a flood of orders that caused them to greatly expand their plants, but when the conflict was over the manufacturers found themselves with much idle machinery. Wartime prosperity is never lasting and it always causes severe dislocations of the economic system from which the country and its people suffer for years afterward. It is no wonder that the National Manufacturers association were quick recently to announce to the public that its members are not eager for war profits and would much prefer the normal trade they enjoy when the world is at peace.

The lurid crime magazines, no doubt, will pounce upon the exciting escapades of Indiana's flying Lochinvar, who shot a flying instructor to death recently while flying over Missouri, as hot copy for their readers. The unusual incident has all the elements of reader interest that those publications are anxious to have. Incidentally, the slaying in mid-air recalls the tragic death of Len Koenecke, former Escanaba baseball player, who engaged in a quarrel with an airplane pilot. Intending to knock the major league player unconscious so that he could bring his plane down safely, the pilot struck him with a wrench, the blow causing his death.

Ambitious plans for the holiday shopping season were made by Escanaba merchants, joined for concerted action as members of the retail division of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce. Special editions of the Escanaba Daily Press will be issued to advertise the merchandise bargains over Escanaba's large trade territory. Escanaba's development as a busy shopping center has been largely due to the cooperative sales campaign launched under the leadership of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce.

Cooperating with the efforts to make the Escanaba shopping district more attractive, the city administration is going ahead with plans to brighten up Ludington street. Illumination will be increased by one-third through the installation of new lighting equipment. In addition to enhancing the appearance of the thoroughfare, the better lighting program also is expected to justify the additional expense involved through the promotion of traffic safety.

Reforming a City

THE federal government's campaign to free Kansas City completely from any vestige of the Tom Pendergast machine goes on with results that must be gratifying to every citizen of the middle western metropolis. Both federal and county grand jures have worked incessantly to clean up the loose ends since the Big Boss himself was packed off to the penitentiary last May. The federal jury has just retired after a fruitful session.

Besides Pendergast, three of the topranking men in the old machine have been sentenced to jail terms, and indictments against several more have been returned. Dozens of minor figures, gamblers, narcotic peddlers and vice leaders, have been sentenced or driven from the city. Former City Manager H. F. McElroy died just as the federal grand jury was looking into his income tax accounts.

Not only Kansas City but all of America breaths a sigh of vast relief every time the disintegrated political machine of corruption is given another blow. Crooked political bosses are a threat to the very core of democracy. Their kind has no place among a people whose basic philosophy rejects the concept of dictatorship in any form-nationwide or local.

Congress Sees a Movie

THERE was consternation in Washington the other day when congressmen and newspaper correspondents got around to realizing the full import of a current film ("Mr. Smith Goes to Washington") portraying the capital scene. It dawned upon both groups that they were being laughed at with loud guffaws and that their dignity had been ruffled.

Some congressmen were especially indignant—and said so in censorable language. The hero of the piece, they said, was a wee bit wild. Perhaps they forgot the late lamented Huey P. Long and Marion Zioncheck. Furthermore, the congressmen thought, the hero was inordinately dumb. No one, they said, could be named to their august body if he were as naive as Hollywood's conception of a senator. On that point alone, thousands of citizens can be found who would be willing to put up a stiff debate.

Maybe the film isn't exactly an authentic record. But it is good, clean, American fun. If any group has a right to get sore, it is the newspapers. The scenes showing a political boss running the newspapers of an entire state simply by talking over a telephone are fanciful in the extreme. But the newspapers aren't howling. Instead, they're grinning at the film as another sample of Hollywood's handiwork—not all kosher, maybe, but a spirited bit of entertainment. And in these terrible times, it's important that no one lose his sense of humor.

Housing Again

ATTY.-GEN. FRANK MURPHY has again called attention to the housing problem in this country. At a time when building costs are high, any proposals to alleviate poor housing among low-income groups are worthy of appraisal.

Murphy suggests that the inability of the building industry to meet the needs of low-income groups may be partly attributed to the existence of "bidding rings" among less scrupulous contractors and obstruction tactics of a few union leaders. If either charge is true, certainly it is time for action.

"It goes without saying," the attorney-general explains, "that this is not intended either as an attack on the union's basic right of collective bargaining or on business."

Most union leaders, certainly, do not care to impede legitimate construction in any way. Neither do most contractors countenance unlawful collusion. Both groups will want to hear more of this investigation. Both will insist on prompt prosecution if the charges are proven true.

(Christian Science Monitor)

As the result of an investigation by Fortune Magazine, the $3,500,000,000-a-year milk industry in the United States is faced with statistical data tending to prove that milk prices could be reduced as much as 4 cents a quart in most cities and still produce a reasonable profit for farmer and distributor. The importance of the study is not that of raising new questions, but rather of re-emphasizing and supporting long-standing conclusions dairy experts to the effect that milk distributing systems are costly relics of horse-and-buggy days.

That the milk enigma is not one of those incurable ills of the time is currently found in the practice of modernized methods where the law allows retailing of milk at the lower price levels obtained through sound business organizations. Fortune's contention is that certain economic adjustments of no violent character, if made by milk distributors, could effect a reduction in milk prices, say from 12½ cents a quart to 9 or 10 cents, without lowering farm income. And its figures show the 1938 milk price index at 91, compared with a cost-of-living index at 83, food at 78.9, clothing 82.3, and rent 69.5.

Some pertinent question are: Why are stores in some cities compelled by law to sell milk at the same price as delivered milk when they would gladly charge 1 to 2 cents a quart less? Why is it that one large chain store, which claims to be able to reduce its milk price by four cents and still make a profit, is forced by law to maintain price levels in keeping with other distributing systems? Why does the law in some States insist that milk sold in paper containers must cost one cent more a quart than in bottles even though milk-container dealers say their production costs are on a par with glass bottles?

Milk prices appear to be gauged almost wholly upon costs of doorstep delivery, a service millions of consumers are unable to afford. As one of the Nation's basic industries, the milk industry affects the living economy of the entire Nation. Yet it still falls far short of its potential value to the Nation in employment, consumption and productivity, largely due to high prices. Federal supervision has already been required to assure to farmers a fair share of the consumer's dollar. But there is yet opportunity for private enterprise to prove that it can check its own failures without further prodding from Uncle Sam.

A LITTLE MORE SKEPTICISM
(New York Times)

Dr. Jean Walker Mackarlane has been studying children and their intelligence quotients for some time, however, at the University of California; and she has learned that the rating given at 20 months, say, may be quite different from that earned at two or ten years. She knows of cases in which the I. Q. figure changed a hundred points as various environmental pressures were brought to bear; she can remember a two-year-old who dazzled his parents with an I. Q. of 180 and has been going down ever since, having checked at a mere 120 on the last test.

The moral is obvious: The I. Q. tests prove something, no doubt, but nothing very extensive and nothing necessarily permanent. And the I. Q. testers might well be asked to qualify for their work by an I. Q. measurement which would test, among other things, the amount of skepticism with which they view the I. Q. tests.

World Affairs Reviewed

Washington, D. C. — Although Italy lays claim to some of the oldest cities in the world ,it now is the proud possessor of one of the youngest. This city of only a few months is Carbonia, Sardinia. Indeed it is a town of only a few thousand inhabitants, but its importance to the industrial life of Italy gives it a commanding rank. Moreover, it has brought to public attention one of the least known islands of the world.

Carbonia is Italy's newest and best coal bin, and it is for this reason that the new village is important. A recently discovered coal mine gave rise to the thriving village, and the mine's 60,000 tons of coal gives promise of a larger output, while the made-to-order village to house workers already contains a city hall, hospital, and theatre. The town's recently erected house of worship is dedicated to the Roman Bishop, San Ponziani, who, exiled to Sardinia more than 1600 years ago, was forced to work in mines then operating there.

Coal mines discovered nearly 2000 years ago in the locality of Carbonia were worked to what was considered exhaustion. However, in recent years Italy has been hard pressed for many natural resources, coal being one of these. Geologists under instructions from Premier Mussolini have been delving into the possibilities of all old mining centers. Their find of a mine at Carbonia has been not only the means of building a city, but has heartened industrial Italy.

Sardinia is an Italian possession in the Mediterranean Sea. It is about 160 miles in length and 28 miles wide, with a population of approximately 1,000,000. From the name of this island the familiar word sardine came into use on the North American continent. Few sardines, however, come to these shores from that little-known part of the world.

Mineral deposits of iron, copper, and silver attracted Phoenician colonists to Sardinia long before the birth of Christ. Later the Romans came and made this island on the the Mediterranean granaries that fed the Empire's armies and citizenry.

The age of Sardinia is not known, but it is believed that a race of people lived there before the Phoenicians. Prehistoric monuments indicate that a civilization lived on the island probably during the Bronze Age, for on the area are several thousand towers still standing, built by a people whose architecture cannot be identified.

Sardinia's geographic location along the path of Mediterranean exploration and conquest gave it an inevitable role in the continuous drama of war and exploitation that followed. The Byzantines captured it from the Romans and held it until the tenth century. In this period the Saracens took possession but were later driven out by the Pisans. Old churches there show strong influence of these people. The Pisans surrendered to Genoa, and then to James II of Aragon. The capital was surrendered in 1708 to the English, but in the War of Spanish Succession the island was granted to Austria in 1713 under the Peace of Utrecht. In 1720 it passed to the Duke of Savoy, who took the title of king. Sardinia was united politically with Piedmont from 1848 until 1861, when Victor Emmanuel II became King of United Italy.

—STRATEGIC LOCATION—

The strategic location of Sardinia brings it more and more into the spotlight of European affairs. About 125 miles west of the nearest point of Italy, it is one of the stepping-stones between Africa and Europe. It is only seven and one-half miles south of Corsica, and not much more than a hundred miles north of Tunisia, both of which French possessions have been lately in news headlines as Italian objectives.

Generally mountainous, Sardinia turns a granite back on the mother country to the east. In the west are volcanic uplands. The island has few rivers of consequence, and these shrivel in dry seasons and swell to torrents with prolonged rains. More extreme than on the mainland, the climate is known for its hot, dry summers and harsh, wet winters. Italy has never considered Sardinia a valuable asset, but since the island is now producing coal, and has other mineral possibilities which are being explored; it is being looked upon by Mussolini with just pride.

Both man and beast of Sardinia are small in stature. Unusually small are the local donkeys, as well as native Sardinian cattle. The very character of the islanders, stern and uncompromising, is often laid to their harsh, rocky surroundings, which have served as a wall not only against outside influences, but against the transfer of language and customs from one side of the island to the other. The language used is made up of five or six dialects. It is a mixture of Latin, Spanish, and Italian, with traces of other languages. Italian, however, is the predominant tongue and is taught in the public schools.

But despite a stern disposition, the Sards are generous, hospitable, and honorable. Politeness is carried almost to extreme. Hospitality is akin to a religious zeal, and to refuse a cup of coffee or other beverage when visiting in a home is considered an act of discourtesy.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN

Washington—To the general public, war developments and the neutrality battle in Congress have combined to blackout the group of important municipal elections next Tuesday. But not to party leaders, who are watching them with intense interest as significant indicators of the political winds.

Attentionis chiefly focused on three elections in three key sections of the country—the East, Midwest, and Pacific Coast. Each is a contest of a liberal Democrat against an entrenched Republican regime.

In the East the battleground is rock-ribbed Republican Philadelphia, where Judge Robert E. Lamberton, hand-picked candidate of Joseph Pew, oil-millionaire boss of the local GOP, is opposed by Democratic City Controller Robert C. White on a reform platform backed by some independent Republicans. Many years of machine rule have bankrupted the city—last year it had to hock its municipal gas plant to raise operating funds—and White is demanding a new deal in local affairs.

The major Midwest contest is in Detroit, between Republican Mayor Richard Reading and Edward J. Jefferies, a new young Democratic crusader. Thirty-six years old, son of a prominent Democrat who sat on the State bench for 30 years, Jefferies led Reading by better than 5-to-2 in a non-partisan primary early last month. Jefferies is personable and dynamic, and is being groomed by state Democratic chiefs to go after Senator Arthur Vandenberg's scalp next year.

The important West Coast fight is in San Francisco, where veteran Mayor Rossi is being challenged by Representative Frank Havenner, one-time water power crusader, one-time secretary to Senator Hiram Johnson, and staunch New Dealer. Havenner has the backing of all labor factions plus reform elements.

—NO NUT—

For several days William Farish, president of giant Standard Oil of New Jersey, had listened to independent producers and retailers tell the monopoly committee about their difficulties with the big oil corporations.

After one particularly hot session, Farish remarked to SEC Commissioner Leon Henderson, "When you going to stop putting those nut witnesses on the stand?"

"Why not?" demanded Farish.

"Because he's got $2,000,000. And, Mr. Farish, you wouldn't call anyone who can make that much money a nut, would you?"

—"MOUNTAIN JUSTICE"—

The openly hostile House committee investigating the National Labor Relations Board has held no public hearings as yet, but already it has given the agency a taste of the "mountain justice" it can expect when the proceedings do get under way.

One of the first things Edmund J. Toland, general counsel of the committee, did was to seize the files and records of the union of NLRB employees. An independent organization, the union made no complaint, although it has nothing to do with the affairs of the Board. But after a month had rolled by and its papers and books still were unreturned, union officials found themselves in an embarrassing situation.

They couldn't pay bills, act on grievances by members, or transact any other routine business. Toland had their files and flatly refused either to release them or allow them to be photostated.

Finally, in an effort to obtain a few dollars for some pressing accounts, George Koplow, union treasurer, asked to be allowed to draw a $15 check. After some wrangling, W. J. Shaughnessy, one of Toland's assistants, agreed provided Koplow signed the following paper:

"I, George Koplow, having been granted permission to make out a check for $15 for petty cash disbursements as treasurer of the National Labor Relations Board union, do hereby agree to furnish a full accounting of same within two weeks of date. Said permission is granted by W. J. Shaughnessy, investigator-attorney of the committee, to whom said accounting is to be made."

This obvious attempt to harass the the union was too much for Robert Condon, union president, who accompanied Koplow. He indignantly rejected the demand and threatened to carry the matter to friendly Congressmen. At this Toland hastily back-tracked, returning the union's records after photostating them.

Note—Prior to his appointment as committee counsel, Toland represented a number of big corporations in anti-union cases before the NLRB. He also was attorney for several labor-detective outfits.

HOLDING A SEAT

Craning your neck,
    Straining your eyes,
Scanning the stands,
    Searching the skies!
Turning and twisting
    You stand and sit,
Over and over
    You hanker to quit,
But "Never!" you cry,
    "No such defeat!"
With your life and a lunch
    You are holding a seat!

You don't dare to leave,
    You can't walk around,
Already ten people
    Have quizzed you and frowned —
Five hundred more
    Will demand that chair,
But you hold your ground
    With your fists and a prayer.
And SHE don't ever come
    Till the very last beat,
When with life and lunch
    You are holding a seat!

U. P. Fishermen Seek Net Loans

St. Ignace, Mich. (AP)—The commercial fishermen of St. Ignace, who lost virtually all their equipment beneath the grinding ice floes of this region last February, awaited today the arrival of an examiner of the Disaster Loan Corporation, of Minneapolis, to arrange for approximately $30,000 in loans.

The fishermen petitioned for the loans from the federal agency after having discussed their problem with U. S. Senator Prentiss Brown and Rep. Fred Bradley. The movement was started by A. R. Highstone and Captain Nels Nelson, of St. Ignace.

The abnormal ice conditions last winter destroyed nets and other commercial fishing equipment both here and at Manistique and Escanaba.

Michigan Has Big Salt Reserve Yet

Lansing—If the salt that underlies the most of the southern peninsula of Michigan—some 32,000 square miles of it—were piled on the surface it would cover the entire peninsula to a depth of more than 500 feet. There is more than 3,000 cubic miles of it and at current rate of use there is enough to supply the United States for 3,000,000 years or the entire world for 1,000,000 years.

These estimates of Michigan's salt reserve have been made by O. F. Poindexter of the geological survey division of the Michigan department of conservation from the records of the thousands of oil wells drilled in the state. The salt beds, each 10 to 300 feet thick and occurring one above another with layers of limestone or dolomite between, are reached 1,000 feet below ground at Detroit, 5,000 feet down in central Michigan and 3,000 feet down on the Lake Michigan shore. Only wells in extreme southern and southwestern Michigan have failed to discover salt.

Michigan has been for years the leading salt producing state of the nation and its production now supplies 25 percent of the national demand for salt for table and industrial uses.

Mice Family Nests Among Dollar Bills

Michigan Has Big Salt Reserve Yet

Lansing—If the salt that underlies the most of the southern peninsula of Michigan—some 32,000 square miles of it—were piled on the surface it would cover the entire peninsula to a depth of more than 500 feet. There is more than 3,000 cubic miles of it and at current rate of use there is enough to supply the United States for 3,000,000 years or the entire world for 1,000,000 years.

These estimates of Michigan's salt reserve have been made by O. F. Poindexter of the geological survey division of the Michigan department of conservation from the records of the thousands of oil wells drilled in the state. The salt beds, each 10 to 300 feet thick and occurring one above another with layers of limestone or dolomite between, are reached 1,000 feet below ground at Detroit, 5,000 feet down in central Michigan and 3,000 feet down on the Lake Michigan shore. Only wells in extreme southern and southwestern Michigan have failed to discover salt.

Michigan has been for years the leading salt producing state of the nation and its production now supplies 25 percent of the national demand for salt for table and industrial uses.

Ballet Caravan Opens Concert League Season Here Tonight

28 Persons In Dance Troupe at Auditorium

"Billy the Kid", an American Saga; "City Portrait", "Charade", Pocahontas" and "Filling Station" are some of the ballets carried in the repertory of the American Ballet Caravan which will be seen at William W. Oliver Memorial Auditorium here tonight at 8:30 o'clock.

The All-American dance company presents themes familiar to Americans but novel and unique, as they are set in dance form. Here are subjects that the Smiths and Joneses know about. Here are no obscure legends or fairy tales of the ogre and the princess, no mock heroics of the dragon-killer and the giant, but things for and of Americans who understand them and are cognizant of what is going on while these ballets are being performed. No literature is necessary to explain the action of the dance.

STARTING TIME CHANGED

Because of conflict with church services in the city, the program of the Ballet Caravan will start at 8:30 o'clock this evening instead of the usual 8:15 p. m.

Lincoln Kirstein, director and founder of the American Ballet Caravan, says of "Filling Station", "We have tried to create a typical American scene with the prototypes of American citizens to everyone. The music, (by Virgil Thomson) written especially for it as should be the case in all ballets, is composed in part of bits from Baptist hymns, popular ballads and hillbilly fragments."

Charade Well Received

This is a good example of what the Caravan is striving for and what they are doing in the field of ballet. The company is enlarging and widening its repertory with ballets of widely divergent subjects and they are constantly adding to growing stock of subjects. Two of the latest are "Charade" and "City Portrait."

"Charade" with choreography by Lew Christensen, distinguished dancer and Balletmaster of the Caravan, who is already responsible for "Filling Station" and "Pocahontas", which were so favorably received at the Martin Beck Theatre in New York in May 1939. The ballet takes place in a middle class American home in a small town around 1910. The family is very nervous over the success of its debutante and the younger sister manages to disguise herself in window curtains and spoil a little of the popularity of the real debutante. The dancing is arranged on a basis of American popular dance music of the period, around the forms of the Cotillon and early ragtime dances. The costumes, ballet of the era, are in a palette of ice cream colors designed by Alvin Colt, a brilliant young Virginian recently graduated from the Yale School of Drama. The music has been arranged from actual sources by Trude Rittmann, pianist and musical collaborator of the American Ballet Caravan.

"City Portrait", another brand new ballet is quite different. Eugene Loring, termed by John Martin, critic of the N. Y. Times, as one of the smash successes in ballet, "Billy the Kid" and "Yankee Clipper", is responsible for the dance pantomine based on life in a large American city. The music is by Henry Brandt, a virtuoso pianist, symphonic composer, as well as being known to the world of popular music for his arrangements for Benny Goodman. The costumes are designed by Forrest Thayer, Jr., who recently won the Stage Magazine's award for the best designs by young theatre artists.

American Saga

"Billy the Kid" an American Saga was hailed by critics from all parts of the country last season and in New York, Irving Kolodin, critic of the New York Sun wrote, "With the spell of Mr Loring's shrewdly conceived choreography and Aaron Copland's tangy musical score still strong, one is tempted to say that "Billy the Kid" is the first authentic American Ballet". The characteristic half-strut half-slouch of the cowboy and the grand melodic sweep of the music and the action of the dancers made the New York dance critics throw their hats in the air for the stirring piece of terpsichorean Americana.

The American Ballet Caravan secured the services of one of the finest native composers in the country when Aaron Copland was commissioned to write the music for the ballet. Jared French's lively costumes added to the success of the epic dance pantomime.

"Pocahontas" with music by Elliott Carter, choreography by Lew Christensen; "Air and Variations" with music by Bach, choreography by William Dollar; and "Filling Station" with music by Virgil Thomson and choreography by Mr. Christensen fill out a repertory of ballets of unusual variety.

Colorful Dancers Present Program

Ballet Caravan, a company of 28 persons, will present the first in a series of four concerts given by the Community League at the William W. Oliver Memorial auditorium in the Junior high school tonight.

Phil Westbrook Is President Of Hiawatha Club

Phil Westbrook of this city, senior in the college of literature, science and the arts at the University of Michigan, has been chosen president of the Hiawatha club of the university, which, at present, has a membership of sixty men, upper peninsula students at the university, and which is launching, for the fifth consecutive year, its program to bring together upper peninsula students and to strengthen ties between the peninsula and the university.

Although organized by and for men students, the club's program will bring together upper peninsula women at two "mixer" dances, and they are welcomed at the club's speaking programs.

During the year the Hiawathans will hear Dr. Luther Purdom, director of the bureau of occupational information and vocational guidance, speak on "Occupational Possibilities in the Upper Peninsula," and Professor Robert Craig speak on the University of Michigan forestry camp in the upper peninsula. A third speaker will be Professor John H. Muskens.

Other activities will include stag parties, a hayride, and a skating party. A Christmas get-together with the alumni also is in the offing.

Feeling of Fraternity

"Many people at the university have commented about the unusual feeling of fraternity which seems to be present at all relationships between students from the upper peninsula," according to Westbrook.

"This interest in each other which is evidenced by fellows from up there explains why we think all peninsula students will be interested in the Hiawatha club program."

Westbrook sees in the club an effective way to publicize the university to graduates of upper peninsula high schools. Last spring, he said, the club carried on "missionary" week in several schools, with encouraging results.

Merhoff Quartet and Ruth Pryor Here Thursday

The Merhoff Quartet with Ruth Pryor, ballerina, will come to the senior high school Thursday to present a program of music and dancing.

Every member of the group is a star in his own right and together they make an outstanding touring musical company. Walter Merhoff, manager and master of ceremonies, is an exceptional young baritone who has appeared with the Chicago Civic Opera company as well on National radio programs and personal concerts.

Louis Kristian, dramatic tenor, is a graduate of the University of Minnesota and has continued his musical education at the American Conservatory in Chicago under the personal direction of John C. Wilcox. Before going to Chicago, Mr. Kristin was soloist with the Minneapolis Symphony.

Ella Steele, soprano, has not only enjoyed a successful career as a concert singer both in Chicago and on tour but has achieved a splendid reputation as a teacher of voice. Miss Steele is a graduate of Howard college and of metropolitan schools in Chicago.

Gudrun Thorson, contralto, started her musical career as a pianist. While studying under a scholarship for piano, her teacher heard her sing and decided that her great possibilities lay in the field of voice. Miss Thorson has appeared in Gilbert and Sullivan revivals in Chicago, was starred in Evelyn Everest Freer's "The Pied Piper" and has made several successful concert tours.

Leading Ballerina

Ruth Pryor, one of the best known American born and trained dancers of today, began dancing at the four and at eleven had already been a concert and stage success. She was selected as Premiere Ballerina for the Chicago Civic Opera company, where she starred for several seasons. Miss Pryor is also in great demand as a teacher of ballet.

The program will consist of such numbers as Spanish Dance by Moskowski; Shortnin' Bread by Wolfe; Three Blind Mice with audience participation; Blue Danube Waltz by Strauss.

Phil Westbrook Is President Of Hiawatha Club

Phil Westbrook of this city, senior in the college of literature, science and the arts at the University of Michigan, has been chosen president of the Hiawatha club of the university, which, at present, has a membership of sixty men, upper peninsula students at the university, and which is launching, for the fifth consecutive year, its program to bring together upper peninsula students and to strengthen ties between the peninsula and the university.

Although organized by and for men students, the club's program will bring together upper peninsula women at two "mixer" dances, and they are welcomed at the club's speaking programs.

During the year the Hiawathans will hear Dr. Luther Purdom, director of the bureau of occupational information and vocational guidance, speak on "Occupational Possibilities in the Upper Peninsula," and Professor Robert Craig speak on the University of Michigan forestry camp in the upper peninsula. A third speaker will be Professor John H. Muskens.

Other activities will include stag parties, a hayride, and a skating party. A Christmas get-together with the alumni also is in the offing.

Feeling of Fraternity

"Many people at the university have commented about the unusual feeling of fraternity which seems to be present at all relationships between students from the upper peninsula," according to Westbrook.

"This interest in each other which is evidenced by fellows from up there explains why we think all peninsula students will be interested in the Hiawatha club program."

Westbrook sees in the club an effective way to publicize the university to graduates of upper peninsula high schools. Last spring, he said, the club carried on "missionary" week in several schools, with encouraging results.

Merhoff Quartet and Ruth Pryor Here Thursday

The Merhoff Quartet with Ruth Pryor, ballerina, will come to the senior high school Thursday to present a program of music and dancing.

Every member of the group is a star in his own right and together they make an outstanding touring musical company. Walter Merhoff, manager and master of ceremonies, is an exceptional young baritone who has appeared with the Chicago Civic Opera company as well on National radio programs and personal concerts.

Ella Steele, soprano, has not only enjoyed a successful career as a concert singer both in Chicago and on tour but has achieved a splendid reputation as a teacher of voice. Miss Steele is a graduate of Howard college and of metropolitan schools in Chicago.

Gudrun Thorson, contralto, started her musical career as a pianist. While studying under a scholarship for piano, her teacher heard her sing and decided that her great possibilities lay in the field of voice. Miss Thorson has appeared in Gilbert and Sullivan revivals in Chicago, was starred in Evelyn Everest Freer's "The Pied Piper" and has made several successful concert tours.

Leading Ballerina

Ruth Pryor, one of the best known American born and trained dancers of today, began dancing at the four and at eleven had already been a concert and stage success. She was selected as Premiere Ballerina for the Chicago Civic Opera company, where she starred for several seasons. Miss Pryor is also in great demand as a teacher of ballet.

The program will consist of such numbers as Spanish Dance by Moskowski; Shortnin' Bread by Wolfe; Three Blind Mice with audience participation; Blue Danube Waltz by Strauss.

If Your Child Has A NASTY COLD

Relieve the Misery As Most Mothers Do

Rub chest, throat, and back thoroughly with Vicks VapoRub at bedtime. Then spread a thick layer on the chest and cover with a warmed cloth. Right away VapoRub goes to work to relieve the misery.

VapoRub brings double relief because of its double action. It acts both as a stimulating poultice and a medicated vapor. Its poultice action penetrates the surface skin; its soothing vapors are breathed direct to irritated air passages. Try it. You'll find that often by morning most of the misery of the cold is gone.

BREAKWATER JOB FINISHED

Marquette—Construction of the 1,600-foot breakwater extension in Presque Isle harbor by the Merritt-Chapman & Scott corporation, of New York, has been completed, officials of the company announced yesterday.

The new structure, built to give the harbor better protection from northerly winds, has been tentatively approved for acceptance by Captain P. M. Reeves, Duluth, of the United States army engineering corps. Final acceptance will be made shortly by Colonel X. H. Price, U. S. army engineers, of Duluth.

First rock for the extension was laid on May 13, 1938, and since that time a total of 214,000 tons were put down, this being the final estimate of the company. When the project was started, it was estimated 220,000 tons would be used.

Much of the rock was placed by the Amazon, huge steam-powered derrick scow, whose 60-foot boom handled chunks weighing from 10 to 20 tons each. The rock was brought by the L. S. & I. railroad from the company's quarry off the Big Bay road.

And there will be Communists in this country as long as grievous social problems are not energetically dealt with by our democratic government. To name just one, there is the problem of the migratory farm worker.

Communism has attracted not only some of the worst of our citizens, but some of the best, particularly among the young, for the simple reason that they want to do something energetic about real evils and about real problems, and it is very difficult for them to find any political group with which to align themselves for fundamental attacks on fundamental issues.

The youth of this country is too intelligent to be enthusiastic about an Americanism that confines itself to platitudes or superficial, purely ameliorative measures.

The Communist party, in its blind slavishness to Moscow, and in its exclusive concern with the welfare of the Soviet Union, has blocked and confused American radicalism, and reduced it to a formula for perpetual trouble making without even the desire for the solution of any problem. But the radicalism will continue to exist as long as there are crying injustices and stupidities in the social order, and so long as the American mind is healthy and progressive.

DEATH TAKES J. A. HETRICK

Veteran of Marble Arms Dies After Long Illness

James A. Hetrick, 75, veteran employe of the Marble Arms and Manufacturing Co., passed away yesterday morning at the family home, 1116 Minnesota avenue, after a lingering illness. Death was not unexpected and all immediate members of the family were at the bedside as he died peacefully in his sleep.

James Alexander Hetrick was born Oct. 2, 1864, at Oakland, Pa., a son of James Alexander and Jane Millaron Hetrick. He came to Michigan when but a young man and lived in the state of his adoption until death. He was by profession an engineer and held both stationary and marine licenses.

In 1899 the new Marble Arms factory was constructed and Mr. Hetrick was selected as engineer, a position he held up to the time of his death. In point of years of service he was the oldest employe of the local firm.

Mr. Hetrick was united in marriage on Dec. 11, 1889 to Nettie L. Marble and of this union two sons were born, Russell Earl, city, and Truitt James, who passed away at the age of 7 years.

Surviving are the widow, one son, Russell, and one sister, Mrs. B. F. Bell, of Templeton, Pa.

Mr. Hetrick was a great lover of the woods and streams and spent a good portion of his leisure time in hunting and fishing.

The body was removed to the Swenson Brothers funeral parlors and will be returned today to the family home. Funeral services will be conducted Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home. Burial will be made in the family plot in Fernwood cemetery.

and unjustified persecutions into nearly every part of the country." And Mr. O'Brian added, very sensibly, "in these present troubled days it would be a great mistake for public officials to encourage private citizens to go searching for spies."

And there will be Communists in this country as long as grievous social problems are not energetically dealt with by our democratic government. To name just one, there is the problem of the migratory farm worker.

Communism has attracted not only some of the worst of our citizens, but some of the best, particularly among the young, for the simple reason that they want to do something energetic about real evils and about real problems, and it is very difficult for them to find any political group with which to align themselves for fundamental attacks on fundamental issues.

The youth of this country is too intelligent to be enthusiastic about an Americanism that confines itself to platitudes or superficial, purely ameliorative measures.

The Communist party, in its blind slavishness to Moscow, and in its exclusive concern with the welfare of the Soviet Union, has blocked and confused American radicalism, and reduced it to a formula for perpetual trouble making without even the desire for the solution of any problem. But the radicalism will continue to exist as long as there are crying injustices and stupidities in the social order, and so long as the American mind is healthy and progressive.

DEATH TAKES J. A. HETRICK

Veteran of Marble Arms Dies After Long Illness

James A. Hetrick, 75, veteran employe of the Marble Arms and Manufacturing Co., passed away yesterday morning at the family home, 1116 Minnesota avenue, after a lingering illness. Death was not unexpected and all immediate members of the family were at the bedside as he died peacefully in his sleep.

James Alexander Hetrick was born Oct. 2, 1864, at Oakland, Pa., a son of James Alexander and Jane Millaron Hetrick. He came to Michigan when but a young man and lived in the state of his adoption until death. He was by profession an engineer and held both stationary and marine licenses.

Upon coming to Michigan he worked first at Frankfort, then at a mill at Little Harbor near Thompson and later for the Thompson Lumber Co., at Thompson where he was both engineer at the mill and also at times handled one of the company's tugs.

He came to Gladstone 41 years ago to become associated with the late Lansing and Webster Marble. N. B. Brown and Charles France in producing the Marble Safety axe. In 1899 the new Marble Arms factory was constructed and Mr. Hetrick was selected as engineer, a position he held up to the time of his death. In point of years of service he was the oldest employe of the local firm.

Mr. Hetrick was united in marriage on Dec. 11, 1889 to Nettie L. Marble and of this union two sons were born, Russell Earl, city, and Truitt Jameus, who passed away at the age of 7 years.

Surviving are the widow, one son, Russell, and one sister, Mrs. B. F. Bell, of Templeton, Pa.

Mr. Hetrick was a great lover of the woods and streams and spent a good portion of his leisure time in hunting and fishing.

The body was removed to the Swenson Brothers funeral parlors and will be returned today to the family home. Funeral services will be conducted Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home. Burial will be made in the family plot in Fernwood cemetery.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER

New York, Oct. 31 (AP)—The stock market today closed the books of October with splotches of red ink and, on the average, finished the month about where it started.

Strong buying in aircrafts at the day's opening gave the list an initial bullish tinge, but this was short-lived. Aside from a handful of specialties, leading issues refused to follow the aviations and, around noon, a selling wave knocked down steels, motors and other groups fractions to more than 2 points.

Offerings soon dried up, however, and dealings moved at a slow jog throughout the remainder of the proceedings. Several aircrafts, which cancelled their gains on the mid-way slide, recovered for fractional net advances at the close.

Wall Street appeared to be as much confused as ever over European happenings. Some thought the shakeup of Mussolini's cabinet was helpful to the allies, but others, though, saw a "smoke screen" in the shift.

A little late support followed the speech of Russian Premier Molotoff in which Britain and France were accused of seeking new excuses for war.

Aircrafts had the benefit of the $3 dividend by Douglas and United Aircraft's boosting of its dividend from 75 cents to $1.25. Highly optimistic forecasts of earnings for the major plane manufacturers were a prop. Douglas, United, Glenn Martin and Curtiss-Wright ended with modest plus marks, the latter established a new 1939 top.

The third quarter figures of U. S. Steel, released after the close, were better than had been looked for in some circles, but "Big Steel" was off 1½ at 74¼ when the final gong sounded. For the period the company showed 47 cents a share profit oon the common against a net loss of $5,847,-791 in same 1938 months and a net of 37 cents a share in the June quarter of the current year. Bethlehem dipped 1 7-8 at 89.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was ooff .5 of a point on the day at 52.6. A month ago the composite stood at 52.3. Transfers for the five hours totalled 1,011,582 shares compared with 638,870 yesterday.

A. M. Byers was an isolated strong spot at a new year's high. Loew's and Sears Roebuck held modest improvement.

In the curb, fractions to more than 2 were sliced off Jones & Laughlin, American Cyanamid "B," Electric Bond & Share and Bell Aircraft. Majestic Radio dropped 5-16 in its return to trading after the temporary suspension coincident with reorganization action. Turnover of 183,000 shares compared with 154,000 Monday.

CHICAGO GRAIN

The market started up with an early advance of a cent, then tumbled a cent but rallied again to close at the best levels of the day. Final prices were ¼ to 5-8 higher than yesterday with December at 86 to 86 1-8 and May 85 5-8 to 86. The end of the first two months of the European war found Chicago wheat about 17 cents higher than on August 31 and 5 cents below the war boom peaks of September 7.

Continuation of the hard winter wheat belt drought and reports of improved European demand for Canadian wheat offset profit taking, spreading sales and liquidation inspired by weakness of securities. The drought in normally surplus producing regions southwest is being aggravated each day without moisture relief and the forecast indicated no precipitation is in sight.

Corn closed 1-8 to 3-8 higher, December 50 3-8 to 50 5-8, May 53 1-8 to 53¼; oats unchanged to ¼ higher, rye 1-8 to ¼ up, soy beans ¾ to 1¼ higher and lard unchanged to 5 higher.

Export sales of Canadian wheat were estimated at more than 1,000,000 bushels, including a cargo of 120,000 bushels cleared from Albany to Copenhagen. Approximately 100,000 bushels of Canadian rye also were sold. Great Britain was reported negotiating for new Australian wheat, which will be harvested soon, while the Argentine government reduced prices to exporters to the equivalent of 45 1-8 cents.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

Chicago, Oct. 31 (AP)—Salable hogs 18,000; total 12,000, active, strong to 10 higher than Monday's average; closed mostly 5 to 10 up, bulk 200 to 300 lbs. 6.80 to 7.00; largely a 6.90 to 7.00 market on strictly good, choice barrows and gilts, top 7.00 freely; 300 to 330 lb. butchers 6.65 to 6.80; most 160 to 200 lb. lights 6.60 to 6.90; good 330 to 450 lb. packing sows 6.10 to 6.50; lighter weights up to 6.75; shippers took 1,000; estimated holdover 2,000.

WITCH-HUNTING IN MODERN SALEM

If the Communist party is, as this column firmly believes it to be, an instrument for furthering the foreign policy of the Soviet government, and an instrument for that purpose alone, then the Congress of the United States should deal with this issue. It should decide whether it is a legitimate political party and should have the privileges of a legitimate political party. But as long as it is a legal organization, it is unjust and unfair to persecute its members for the mere fact of their membership. It is extremely dangerous to begin holding people guilty of and punishing them for things which they have a legal right to do. In fact it is a very Nazi-like and a very Communist-like procedure.

The Nazis and the Communists, in states where they are in power, are accustomed to purge people to punish them, for acts which were not crimes when they were committed. This retroative justice has been rightly condemned by all people who believe in government by law.

Therefore, the proposal to drop from the Federal pay roll all people who have been members of the League for Peace and Democracy is persecution and is, indeed, "a sordid procedure."

Thens of thousands of people have joined the League for Peace and Democracy because they believe in peace and democracy. The Communists, with their termite cell systems, have permeated a great many groups of honest liberals. They have also permeated certain trade unions. And their carefully designed strategy, authoritarian unity and zeal make it inevitable that once they are in, they are very likely to dominate whatever group they enter. But that does not mean that every member of each of these groups should be held responsible for the activities of these cells.

Congress has got, therefore, to face the main issue and clarify that. If a Communist can run for President of the United States, and if the police of our cities is instructed to protect their meetings, what possible ground is there for firing Mr. Jones, who has a little job as a clerk in a government office, or for that matter for firing Mr. Smith, who has an important job in an administrative bureau because he is a Communist or a member of a "front" organization? Mr. Jones or Mr. Smith have not broken the law, and there is no more reason under the law, for firing them, than there would be for firing Mr. Brown or Mr. Green, because it is revealed that in the last election he voted the Republican ticket instead of the Democratic. Such persecution of individuals is just a way of avoiding a responsibility for meeting the real question.

On the matter of publishing the names of members of organizations, this column finds no legitimate right to protest. Why should anybody in a democracy wish to keep it a secret that he is a member of any organization? If it is a legitimate organization why should he not join it openly? In fact, I think it would be a very good thing if the membership and contributors of all organizations were periodically opened for public scrutiny, and if all organizations soliciting funds from the public were compelled to make a public accounting of what they do with the money.

As it is, anybody can get a letterhead and solicit funds for Spanish orphans, or for promoting peace and democracy, or for distributing Bibles in China or for protecting the United States against "isms" without any guaranties to the public that the funds will be spent for the purpose for which they are collected.

It has reached the pass where it is really dangerous to join any kind of organization because you never know how your name and membership are going to be used. Not so long ago I joined a committee for the purpose of assisting refugees and found some weeks later that, without consulting me at all, my name had been signed to a telegram addressed to the French government containing a denunciation of French policy, about which I was totally uninformed and certainly not in a position to express an opinion. My humanitarian desire to assist some miserable victims of circumstances had been turned into an instrument of international political action. If one joins any organization today he is likely to find that he is one of "We, the undersigned" engaged in some activity of which he had not the slightest prior knowledge.

But there are ominous indications that some witch-hunts are about to be started without any clear concept of the aim, and without any law to guide them. For instance, Representative Martin J. Kennedy, of New York, suggested the other day in the House that the work of "protecting the country against Communism" be turned over to veterans' organizations such as the American Legion, the Veterans of American Foreign Wars, and Disabled American Veterans.

This is a terrifying idea. It suggests that ex-American soldiers should be made into a kind of unofficial Gestapo. Obviously it is to be left to them to determine what is and what is not a Communist. Heaven help us if this sort of thing is ever started! A Communist will become anybody who thinks that this social order is in need of some fundamental reform. Nothing would more quickly divide this country into bitterly hostile groups. The Congress should remember what happened during the Adams administration when the alien and sedition act was passed and we nearly had a civil war as a result.

A prominent American publisher is also supposed to be playing with the idea that "war mothers" should be organized in block sentries to track down "isms." That block-sentry idea has a familiar ring. That's what they have got in Germany. In Germany the block sentries are the individuals who listen at your keyhole to hear whether you are tuning in on foreign radio stations; who check up on who comes to dinner, and patrol the personal lives of people in apartment houses, for purposes of political blackmail.

The idea is sickening and disgusting.

It would be well if a little attention were paid to the wise and expert words that were spoken by Mr. John Lord O'Brian, at the Herald Tribune Forum. Mr. O'Brian was the head of the War Emergency Committee of the Department of Justice in 1917-'19. He presented an astounding picture of the conspiratorial activities carried on in this country by the Germans during the last war. He said that they spent here about $35,000,000 for espionage, sabotage, and propaganda. They subsidized foreign language and American newspapers. They made large contributions to organizations ostensibly working for peace, and gave financial assistance to the "American Truth Society," and the so-called "Embargo Conference," in Chicago, which adopted resolutions protesting against the export of munitions. They provided the money used in organizing "one of the more serious and ambitious conspiracies: Labor's National Peace Conference."

But Mr. O'Brian stated that out of the three million German and Austrian citizens living in this country during the war, it was found necessary to intern less than 2,500 as dangerous enemy aliens when the war broke out, and that "one serious cause of trouble within the United States which interfered greatly with the work of our secret service was a mania for chasing spies. It is impossible to estimate the harm which resulted from this hysteria which brought distrust, hatred,

● SERIAL STORY

JOAN OF ARKANSAS

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

KEITH RHODES—Tech's star halfback, headed for All-America honors.

Yesterday: Joan offers little explanation of her quick trip. Keith is peeved over her failure to call him. She goes riding with him and he parks to tell her: "Joan, I love you."

CHAPTER XVIII

Joan felt her heart race at his words. It was something she had wanted to hear from him . . . something she was confident he would say sooner or later. And here was the moment.

It was the moment she had been waiting for but she didn't know how to meet it. After all the thought she had given the idea it suddenly occurred to her that she still wasn't sure.

Finally: "Keith—I must be honest with you. I did want you to tell me that. And it wasn't out of selfish, conceited motives. I didn't want you to feed my ego. But now . . . oh, Keith, I don't know what to say."

"Afraid you'll hurt me by giving the wrong answer?"

"No, Keith. I just want to be sure. I can't tell you I do love you . . . but I can't tell you I don't."

But late that night the answer came to her. The suddenness of it made her sit bolt upright. From out across the still campus came the clear, mellow chimes from Haddon Tower, tolling 2 o'clock.

She propped herself against the back of the bed and stared out the window at the opposite end of the room. The moon danced on the branches of the trees swaying gently in the wind. A street lamp flickered fitfully, trying desperately to compete with the moon but failing miserably.

Everything was so clear now. Everything. She saw it all. If she were in love with Keith she would have known it tonight. She would have known it when he confessed his love for her.

That's what she had been waiting for, wasn't it? That's what she had wanted to hear him say. So, then . . . why hadn't the spark registered?

Maybe it would rekindle. But one thing she was sure of: she wasn't in love with him now. It was a relief to know that much at least. Before the chimes struck the quarter-hour she had dropped off to sleep.

Keith wasn't in class Monday. "What's the matter with Prince Charming?" Joan asked Dan, nodding toward the empty seat. "Oversleep again?"

He gave a short affirmative nod. "Yep . . . the guy's impossible. And I'm warning you" . . . he shook a finger at her . . . "I'm not going to kill a solid evening cramming with him before finals. You're welcome to the job . . . exclusively."

[illegible] grimaced. "Thanks. How'll the poor kid get through if we don't toss him a life-line?"

"For three years," he said slowly, "I've been tossing that guy a life-line on the football field. Can you blame me if I get just a little fed up. Keith's a nice boy, but—"

He left the sentence unfinished. It didn't need finishing, she thought. The word "but" sufficed.

Keith called that night and asked if he could come over for awhile. She told him she had too much to do. After all, she had been gone for three days. Later, upstairs, she realized she didn't have so much to do after all.

Then why hadn't she let Keith come over? She didn't have the immediate answer, but through her head filtered the "life-line" discussion she had with Dan that morning.

Glancing idly through the paper next morning Joan suddenly found herself staring at Dan Webber's name in print. According to the story in front of her Dan had been named chairman of the "Last Week" committee by Barney Hughes.

Her brow knitted perplexedly. And what might that mean? she wondered. She turned to Elaine Chesbro who was poking with a great lack of interest at a dish of prunes.

"Hey, squirt—what's this 'Last Week' business all about?" She shoved the paper toward her roommate and pointed out the article.

"Oh . . . that?" Elaine pushed the prunes aside. "That's a traditional ceremony around here whereby the football captain appoints another senior on the squad to represent the boys who are playing their last game for Tech."

"I'll need more explanation than that."

"Oh, there's a lot of junk they do and observe," Elaine continued vaguely. "Like the last rally and senior tackle—that's when all the seniors line up Thursday after practice and smack the tackling dummy for the last time. Quite a ceremony . . . pictures, and stuff, and even a radio broadcast from the field."

"There shouldn't be much for him to do, then."

"That's right . . . and the Student Senate even names some gal to help him do nothing. It's the poor stooges who have to go out and gather wood for the bonfire that do all the work."

"Oh, and you know the Senate usually just makes a formality of appointing his co-chairman. He just lets 'em know who he wants and they do the rest."

Joan looked up in surprise. She wondered who Dan would select. Eileen Campbell, perhaps . . the girl he had taken to the Gamma dance. No, she guessed not. Dan hadn't dated her since

"I give up," she mused.

Elaine looked at her. "Huh?"

"About who Dan would select I suppose," Elaine added dryly.

"It's a natural thought, isn't it?" Joan said as she got up to leave.

Elaine watched her retreating back. "Ummm. Now, I wonder," she said softly to herself. Elaine Chesbro was gifted with a highly analytical mind and as a sudden thought came to her an impish expression stole over her face.

• • •

The impish smile broadened into a wide grin as the idea grew on her. First, she had better call Tommy Peters for a little information.

He raved a blue streak for getting him out of bed "in the middle of the night" but gradually subsided. "What's doin'?" he grumbled.

"Who's Dan going to name as co-chairman for the 'Last Week' committee?"

"No one," Tommy's voice came back. "His ideas on the subject are strictly blank, from what I gather. So what?"

"So then the Senate just goes ahead and names someone for him, doesn't it?"

"Such questions you can ask me before the sun is up," he groaned. "Go 'way and let me sleep."

She peered into her compact reflectively as she repaired her makeup. Bert Cassidy had been trying to get a date with her for weeks. Maybe she ought to stop in at the Student Senate office and say hello to him. As secretary of student affairs, he might be able to do her a favor some time.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER

New York, Oct. 31 (AP)—The stock market today closed the books of October with splotches of red ink and, on the average, finished the month about where it started.

Strong buying in aircrafts at the day's opening gave the list an initial bullish tinge, but this was short-lived. Aside from a handful of specialties, leading issues refused to follow the aviations and around noon, a selling wave knocked down steels, motors and other groups fractions to more than 2 points.

Offerings soon dried up, however, and dealings moved at a slow jog throughout the remainder of the proceedings. Several aircrafts, which cancelled their gains on the mid-way slide, recovered for fractional net advances at the close.

Wall Street appeared to be as much confused as ever over European happenings. Some thought the shakeup of Mussolini's cabinet was helpful to the allies, but others, though, saw a "smoke screen" in the shift.

A little late support followed the speech of Russian Premier Molotoff in which Britain and France were accused of seeking new excuses for war.

Aircrafts had the benefit of the $3 dividend by Douglas and United Aircraft's boosting of its dividend from 75 cents to $1.25. Highly optimistic forecasts of earnings for the major plane manufacturers were a prop. Douglas, United, Glenn Martin and Curtiss-Wright ended with modest plus marks, the latter established a new 1939 top.

The third quarter figures of U. S. Steel, released after the close, were better than had been looked for in some circles, but "Big Steel" was off 1½ at 74¼ when the final gong sounded. For the period the company showed 47 cents a share profit oon the common against a net loss of $5,847,791 in same 1938 months and a net of 37 cents a share in the June quarter of the current year. Bethlehem dipped 1 7-8 at 89.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was ooff .5 of a point on the day at 52.6. A month ago the composite stood at 52.3. Transfers for the five hours totalled 1,011,582 shares compared with 638,870 yesterday.

A. M. Byers was an isolated strong spot at a new year's high. Loew's and Sears Roebuck held modest improvement.

In the curb, fractions to more than 2 were sliced off Jones & Laughlin, American Cyanamid "B," Electric Bond & Share and Bell Aircraft. Majestic Radio dropped 5-16 in its return to trading after the temporary suspension coincident with reorganization action. Turnover of 183,000 shares compared with 154,000 Monday.

CHICAGO GRAIN

The market started up with an early advance of ½ cent, then tumbled a cent but rallied again to close at the best levels of the day. Final prices were ¼ to 5-8 higher than yesterday with December at 86½ to 86 5-8 and May 85 7-8 to 86. The end of the first two months of the European war found Chicago wheat about 17 cents higher than on August 31 and 3 cents below the war-boom peaks of September 7.

Continuation of the hard winter wheat belt drought and reports of improved European demand for Canadian wheat offset profit taking, spreading sales and liquidations inspired by weakness of securities. The drought in normally surplus producing regions southwest is being aggravated each day without moisture relief and the forecast indicated no precipitation is in sight.

Corn closed 1-8 to 3-8 higher, December 50 5-8 to 50 3-4, May 53 1-8 to 53¼; oats unchanged to ¼ higher; rye 1-8 to ¼ up; soy beans ½ to 1¼ higher and lard unchanged to 3 higher.

Export sales of Canadian wheat were estimated at more than 1,000,000 bushels, including a cargo of 120,000 bushels cleared from Albany to Copenhagen. Approximately 100,000 bushels of Canadian rye also were sold. Great Britain was reported negotiating for new Australian wheat, which will be harvested soon, while the Argentine government reduced prices to exporters to the equivalent of 48 1-8 cents.

On The RECORD

By Dorothy Thompson

WITCH-HUNTING IN MODERN SALEM

If the Communist party is, as this column firmly believes it to be, an instrument for furthering the foreign policy of the Soviet government, and an instrument for that purpose alone, then the Congress of the United States should deal with this issue. It should decide whether it is a legitimate political party and should have the privileges of a legitimate political party. But as long as it is a legal organization, it is unjust and unfair to persecute its members for the mere fact of their membership. It is extremely dangerous to begin holding people guilty of and punishing them for things which they have a legal right to do. In fact it is a very Nazi-like and a very Communist-like procedure.

The Nazis and the Communists, in states where they are in power, are accustomed to purge people, to punish them, for acts which were not crimes when they were committed. This retroative justice has been rightly condemned by all people who believe in government by law.

Therefore, the proposal to drop from the Federal pay roll all people who have been members of the League for Peace and Democracy is persecution and is, indeed, "a sordid procedure."

Thens of thousands of people have joined the League for Peace and Democracy because they believe in peace and democracy. The Communists, with their termite cell systems, have permeated a great many groups of honest liberals. They have also permeated certain trade unions. And their carefully designed strategy, authoritarian unity and zeal make it inevitable that once they are in, they are very likely to dominate whatever group they enter. But that does not mean that every member of each of these groups should be held responsible for the activities of these cells.

Congress has got, therefore, to face the main issue and clarify that. If a Communist can run for President of the United States, and if the police of our cities is instructed to protect their meetings, what possible ground is there for firing Mr. Jones, who has a little job as a clerk in a government office, or for that matter for firing Mr. Smith, who has an important job in an administrative bureau because he is a Communist or a member of a "front" organization? Mr. Jones or Mr. Smith have not broken the law, and there is no more reason under the law, for firing them, than there would be for firing Mr. Brown or Mr. Green, because it is revealed that in the last election he voted the Republican ticket instead of the Democratic. Such persecution of individuals is just a way of avoiding a responsibility for meeting the real question.

On the matter of publishing the names of members of organizations, this column finds no legitimate right to protest. Why should anybody in a democracy wish to keep it a secret that he is a member of any organization? If it is a legitimate organization why should he not join it openly? In fact, I think it would be a very good thing if the membership and contributors of all organizations were periodically opened for public scrutiny, and if all organizations soliciting funds from the public were compelled to make a public accounting of what they do with the money.

As it is, anybody can get a letterhead and solicit funds for Spanish orphans, or for promoting peace and democracy, or for distributing Bibles in China or for protecting the United States against "isms" without any guaranties to the public that the funds will be spent for the purpose for which they are collected.

It has reached the pass where it is really dangerous to join any kind of organization because you never know how your name and membership are going to be used. Not so long ago I joined a committee for the purpose of assisting refugees and found some weeks later that, without consulting me at all, my name had been signed to a telegram addressed to the French government containing a denunciation of French policy, about which I was totally uninformed and certainly not in a position to express an opinion. My humanitarian desire to assist some miserable victims of circumstances had been turned into an instrument of international political action. If one joins any organization today he is likely to find that he is one of "We, the undersigned" engaged in some activity of which he had not the slightest prior knowledge.

But there are ominous indications that some witch-hunts are about to be started without any clear concept of the aim, and without any law to guide them. For instance, Representative Martin J. Kennedy, of New York, suggested the other day in the House that the work of "protecting the country against Communism" be turned over to veterans' organizations such as the American Legion, the Veterans of American Foreign Wars, and Disabled American Veterans.

This is a terrifying idea. It suggests that ex-American soldiers should be made into a kind of unofficial Gestapo. Obviously it is to be left to them to determine what is and what is not a Communist. Heaven help us if this sort of thing is ever started! A Communist will become anybody who thinks that this social order is in need of some fundamental reform. Nothing would more quickly divide this country into bitterly hostile groups. The Congress should remember what happened during the Adams administration when the alien and sedition act was passed and we nearly had a civil war as a result.

A prominent American publisher is also supposed to be playing with the idea that "war mothers" should be organized in block sentries to track down "isms." That block-sentry idea has a familiar ring. That's what they have got in Germany. In Germany the block sentries are the individuals who listen at your keyhole to hear whether you are tuning in on foreign radio stations; who check up on who comes to dinner, and patrol the personal lives of people in apartment houses, for purposes of political blackmail.

The idea is sickening and disgusting.

It would be well if a little attention were paid to the wise and expert words that were spoken by Mr. John Lord O'Brian, at the Herald Tribune Forum. Mr. O'Brian was the head of the War Emergency Committee of the Department of Justice in 1917-'19. He presented an astounding picture of the conspiratorial activities carried on in this country by the Germans during the last war. He said that they spent here about $35,000,000 for espionage, sabotage, and propaganda. They subsidized foreign language and American newspapers. They made large contributions to organizations ostensibly working for peace, and gave financial assistance to the "American Truth Society," and the so-called "Embargo Conference," in Chicago, which adopted resolutions protesting against the export of munitions. They provided the money used in organizing "one of the more serious and ambitious conspiracies: Labor's National Peace Conference."

But Mr. O'Brian stated that out of the three million German and Austrian citizens living in this country during the war, it was found necessary to intern less than 2,500 as dangerous enemy aliens when the war broke out, and that "one serious cause of trouble within the United States which interfered greatly with the work of our secret service was a mania for chasing spies. It is impossible to estimate the harm which resulted from this hysteria which brought distrust, hatred,

● SERIAL STORY

CAST OF CHARACTERS

KEITH RHODES—Tech's star halfback, headed for All-America honors.

CHAPTER XVIII

Joan felt her heart race at his words. It was something she had wanted to hear from him . . . something she was confident he would say sooner or later. And here was the moment.

It was the moment she had been waiting for but she didn't know how to meet it. After all the thought she had given the idea it suddenly occurred to her that she still wasn't sure.

Finally: "Keith—I must be honest with you. I did want you to tell me that. And it wasn't out of selfish, conceited motives. I didn't want you to feed my ego. But now . . . oh, Keith, I don't know what to say."

"Afraid you'll hurt me by giving the wrong answer?"

"No, Keith. I just want to be sure. I can't tell you I do love you . . . but I can't tell you I don't."

But late that night the answer came to her. The suddenness of it made her sit bolt upright. From out across the still campus came the clear, mellow chimes from Haddon Tower, tolling 2 o'clock.

She propped herself against the back of the bed and stared out the window at the opposite end of the room. The moon danced on the branches of the trees swaying gently in the wind. A street lamp flickered fitfully, trying desperately to compete with the moon but failing miserably.

Everything was so clear now. Everything. She saw it all. If she were in love with Keith she would have known it tonight. She would have known it when he confessed his love for her.

That's what she had been waiting for, wasn't it? That's what she had wanted to hear him say. So, then . . . why hadn't the spark registered?

Maybe it would rekindle. But one thing she was sure of—she wasn't in love with him now. It was a relief to know that much at least. Before the chimes struck the quarter-hour she had dropped off to sleep.

He gave a short affirmative nod. "Yep . . . the guy's impossible. And I'm warning you" . . . he shook a finger at her . . . "I'm not going to kill a solid evening cramming with him before finals. You're welcome to the job . . . exclusively."

"For three years," he said slowly, "I've been tossing that guy a life-line on the football field. Can you blame me if I get just a little fed up. Keith's a nice boy, but—"

Keith called that night and asked if he could come over for awhile. She told him she had too much to do. After all, she had been gone for three days. Later, upstairs, she realized she didn't have so much to do after all.

Then why hadn't she let Keith come over? She didn't have the immediate answer, but through her head filtered the "life-line" discussion she had with Dan that morning.

Glancing idly through the paper next morning Joan suddenly found herself staring at Dan Webber's name in print. According to the story in front of her Dan had been named chairman of the "Last Week" committee by Barney Hughes.

Her brow knitted perplexedly. And what might that mean? she wondered. She turned to Elaine Chesbro who was poking with a great lack of interest at a dish of prunes.

"Hey, squirt—what's this 'Last Week' business all about?" She shoved the paper toward her roommate and pointed out the article.

"Oh . . . that?" Elaine pushed the prunes aside. "That's a traditional ceremony around here whereby the football captain appoints another senior on the squad to represent the boys who are playing their last game for Tech."

"I'll need more explanation than that."

"Oh, there's a lot of junk they do and observe," Elaine continued vaguely. "Like the last rally and senior tackle—that's when all the seniors line up Thursday after practice and smack the tackling dummy for the last time. Quite a ceremony . . . pictures, and stuff, and even a radio broadcast from the field."

"There shouldn't be much for him to do, then."

"That's right . . . and the Student Senate even names some gal to help him do nothing. It's the poor stooges who have to go out and gather wood for the bonfire that do all the work."

"Oh, and you know the Senate usually just makes a formality of appointing his co-chairman. He just lets 'em know who he wants and they do the rest."

Joan looked up in surprise. She wondered who Dan would select. Eileen Campbell, perhaps . . . the girl he had taken to the Gamma dance. No, she guessed not. Dan hadn't dated her since.

"About who Dan would select, I suppose," Elaine added dryly.

"It's a natural thought, isn't it?" Joan said as she got up to leave.

Elaine watched her retreating back. "Ummm. Now, I wonder," she said softly to herself. Elaine Chesbro was gifted with a highly analytical mind and as a sudden thought came to her an impish expression stole over her face.

* * *

The impish smile broadened into a wide grin as the idea grew on her. First, she had better call Tommy Peters for a little information.

He raved a blue streak for getting him out of bed "in the middle of the night" but gradually subsided. "What's doin'?" he grumbled.

"Who's Dan going to name as co-chairman for the 'Last Week' committee?"

"No one," Tommy's voice came back. "His ideas on the subject are strictly blank, from what I gather. So what?"

"So then the Senate just goes ahead and names someone for him, doesn't it?"

"Such questions you can ask me before the sun is up," he groaned. "Go 'way and let me sleep."

She peered into her compact reflectively as she repaired her makeup. Bert Cassidy had been trying to get a date with her for weeks. Maybe she ought to stop in at the Student Senate office and say hello to him. As secretary of student affairs, he might be able to do her a favor some time.

Michigan Closes In On Tennessee In Grid Poll

FIVE UNBEATEN TEAMS ON TOP

Cornell Close Third; Notre Dame Drops to 4th Place

Although the Vols received 67 of the 128 first-place votes cast in the Associated Press' third weekly poll of the season, and compiled a total of 1,120 points to lead the pack, they had no such overwhelming majority as put them on top a week ago.

Both Michigan, which climbed into second place, and Cornell, whose victory over Ohio State boosted it from seventh to third, were a lot closen to the Vols than the runner-up and "show" teams of last week. Tennessee, like the rest of the top five outfits in the poll, is undefeated, but the Vols have played only one major game in their five outings—whipping Alabama.

Wolverines Gaining

Michigan, receiving 20 first place votes and a total of 1,005 points, has four straight victories to its credit, and Cornell, with 18 first-place selections and 933 points, has rolled over Syracuse, Princeton, Penn State and Ohio State. Notre Dame, which has won five in a row, two by one-point margins, dropped from second to fourth in the latest rankings, with 858 points, followed by the last of the "unbeatens," Texas A. & M., with 714 points.

The rest of the top ten is made up of five unbeaten but tied outfits—Oklahoma, Southern California, Tulane, North Carolina and Nebraska.

Four of the first ten teams—Tennessee, Notre Dame, Southern California and Nebraska—are going to have their hands full this Saturday staying up there. The Vols tangle with Louisiana State, which has won five games in a row since dropping its opener to Mississippi. Notre Dame meets up with Army, and, although the Cadets are a weaker-than-usual West Point outfit this season, they always manage to make it hot for he Irish. Southern California faces unbeaten and untied Oregon State, which wound up in 11th place in this week's poll, and Nebraska tries to stop Missouri's three-game winning streak.

Buckeyes Out

The only team to drop out of the first ten this week was Ohio State, by its loss to Cornell. In the Buckeyes' place, North Carolina moved up to the select set.

The standings of the teams (points figured on basis of 10-9-8-7-6, etc., for first, second, third, fourth, etc., place votes):

Team	First Place Votes	Points

Michigan	20	1,005
Cornell	18	933
Notre Dame	12	858
Texas A. & M.	6	714
Oklahoma	2	605
South. California	1	598
Tulane	1	419
North Carolina	1	314
Nebraska	-	180

The second ten: 11th, Oregon State, 76 points; 12th, Duke, 46; 13th, Duquesne, 44; 14th, Ohio State, 25; 15th, Kentucky, 22; 16th, Southern Methodist, 21; 17th, New York University, 20; 18th, Louisiana State, 17; 19th, Clemson, 16; tie between Alabama and U. C. L. A., 14 each.

Hayward Bowler Downs 9½ Pins

Rice Lake, Wis., Oct. 31 (AP)—You bowlers who break down and weep when you get nine pins on those "pocket" hits, imagine the plight of Max Johnson of Hayward, who got nine and a half pins in a bowling match here.

In a special match between Hayward and Rice Lake teams, Johnson cleared nine pins off the alley on his first ball, along with the upper half of the number five pin. He had to shoot again to erase the rest of the five pin off the alley.

ST. JOE CLOSES WITH MUNISING

Fifth Victory In Row Is Sought By Parochial Crew Saturday

Five games in a row is the aim of St. Joseph gridders this week as they prepare for their final game of the season at Munising Saturday in the annual battle for the Little Brown Jug.

Coach Carl Kant's gridders came out of the hard Gladstone battle in comparatively good shape physically and in top-notch shape mentally. They realize that the fortunes were pretty much with them in their victory and only hope they'll hold out until after the Munising game.

In the last four games, the Parochials have displayed a high-powered offense which has chalked up 81 points, largely through the individual efforts of Joe Young, fleet right halfback, who scored 57 of the points. He scored all 32 points against Manistique and repeated by chalking up all of the Parochials' 19 points against Gladstone.

While Young has been doing a major share of the cavorting offensively, the whole team has been functioning very well defensively. After the first three games in which they more or less took it on the nose from Soo, Menominee and Iron Mountain, the Parochial defense started shutting down on opposing ball carriers and Gladstone's score last Saturday was the first in four games to be scored against Kant's crew.

Munising has always been tough for the locals to crack and this year should be no exception. So, it is with an air of determination that the Parochials will take the field next Saturday. They want to bring back the Little Brown Jug, they want their fifth victory in the row, and they want to close the season with a victory.

MARINES WILL BE TOUGH FOE

Coach George Ruwitch is working this week with an eye toward speeding up the offensive charge of both the line and backfield and with toughening up the line to withstand the onslaught of the hard driving Marine backs. The Eskymo mentor came away from the Marinette-LaCrosse game with great respect for Coach Harry Anderle's charges. He reported the Marines have a hard driving running attack and a defense that is well designed to take care of the Escanaba ground attack.

Merle's Knee Weak

Ruwitch has been working long hours this week with Stuart Peterson, blond junior, to have him ready for action should Merle Pfotenhauer's bum knee go bad on him again. The hard driving Eskymo captain still is favoring the knee injury and may not see much service against Marinette. While he is not up to Pfotenhauer's running, Peterson is a long distance punter and a good passer and undoubtedly will see much action Saturday.

Another boy likely to see plenty of service Saturday will be Leonard Fedrow, husky reserve end, who has shown up well in recent games. Fedrow, a senior, has been handicapped this season with an eye injury but has moved along fast of late. He will share the flank duties with Nick Goymerac.

The rest of the line probably will have Cress, Pepin, VanEffen, Davidson, Arbour and Leonard while Barron, Don Pfotenhauer and Bob Craig will round out the backfield.

Big Ten Briefs About Football

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Iowa City. (AP)—Big Jim Walker, negro tackle from Indianapolis, Ind., practiced with the University of Iowa football squad on Tuesday for the first time since he injured a knee more than three weeks ago and there were indications he would be able to play against Purdue Saturday. Practice was light, with several others on the squad still nursing injuries from the Wisconsin game.

Columbus. (AP)—Ohio State's Buckeyes went through another intensive pass defense session on Tuesday as Coach Francis Schmidt pressed for a lineup to hold Indiana in check in an important Big Ten game here Saturday. Special attention was given to the territory five to 10 yards over the scrimmage line, such as Cornell concentrated on in beating the Bucks. Defense against second-stringers using Indiana formations for ground plays also was practiced on the basis of last week's mistakes.

Bloomington. (AP) — Indiana's football squad drilled on tackling and pass defense Tuesday, then worked on its attack for the Ohio State game at Columbus Saturday. Gene White, sophomore guard who kicked the winning point in the Hoosiers' 7-to-6 victory over Illinois, suffered a side injury and was replaced by Mike Bucchianeri.

Evanston (AP) — John Haman, star center, was selected to captain the Northwestern team in Saturday's game with Minnesota. Haman reached stardom two years ago in the Minnesota game. Coach Lynn Waldorf was pleased with the improved showing of the Northwestern line

Lansing—Light frosts bring the longest seasons of fall coloration in Michigan trees, the forestry division of the department of conservation reported today in reply to inquiries about the brilliant reds and yellows already brightening the landscape.

Leaves may begin to take on their fall hues before the first frosts and without the aid of frost. While heavy frosts speed the changes that produce the coloration they also make the leaves fall more quickly, shortening the color season. For the longest possible color seasoin foresters recommend light frosts only.

IRISH ON SPOT AGAINST ARMY

Boys Somewhat Battered and Layden Worries Over Let-Down

BY EARL HILLIGAN

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 31. (AP)—Army will be in a strategic spot to hang a knockout punch on a battered, somewhat tired Notre Dame football team next Saturday in New York.

No one knows this better than Coach Elmer Layden. Off the seasonal records, the West Point eleven doesn't shape up as a match for a team undefeated in five games and holding a chance for an undefeated year. But the fact that a comparison of scores makes the Irish the choice to win has the Notre Dame mentor worried no end.

"Recalling some of the games Notre Dame has had with Army, I'm convinced that the so-called underdog in this game should be made the favorite," Layden said today. "We have to point for this game every year. Army always seems to play its best game against us—and its a cinch they'll come to Saturday's game the strongest they've been this season."

Team Has Spirit

Should the Irish suffer a let-down army could win—and Notre Dame right now is a long ways from being at top strength. The Irish, after five battles in which they have scored only 15 more points than the opposition, could stand an open date.

"It's been tough going," Layden said. "The boys are pretty well battered up and at least five regulars need a rest. But we'll probably have to use them against Army."

For spirit, alertness and determination, Layden rates this Irish team the equal to any Notre Dame team he has coached. The Irish have had to produce those qualities in big doses, principally because Bob Saggau, the only Irish triple threat back, has been handicapped by a leg injury suffered in the opener with Purdue.

But Notre Dame has come up with enough "oomph" to rise above every obstacle. When the line played poorly the backs were "hot"—and vice versa. When placements from the field were needed to win—the kicks split the uprights.

In five games Army defeated little Furman, Centre and Ursinus, tied Columbia and lost to Yale, but Coach Bill Wood says the West Pointers will be "improved" against Notre Dame. Layden won't insist on Wood putting that in writing—he'll take Bill's word for it.

Canzoneri Returns To Big Time Boxing

It will be Canzoneri's first appearance in Madison Square Garden, scene of many of his greatest triumphs, since he began his comeback campaign 18 months ago.

Canzoneri's record since returning to the wars is 16 wins, four defeats and two draws in 22 fights. While Tony's hundreds of admirers are hoping he'll upset Davis, the youngster is a 5-11 choice. Betting is light.

Marines Conclude Season On Sunday, Oppose Newberry

Manistique, Mich. Their game with the Soo Bears last Sunday called off because of inclement weather, the Manistique Inland Marines will conclude their 1939 schedule here next Sunday with the Newberry Sportsmen providing the opposition.

The Marines have won six games to date, winning from Escanaba twice, Marinette-Menominee All Stars twice, Soo and Newberry once each. They have not been defeated this season.

Most Of Mackmen On Auction Block

Preparing for the annual meeting of major and minor league owners at Cincinnati in December, Mack said with the two exceptions "I will trade any player if we can gain young, enthusiastic players who, though not necessarily stars, possess a bright future."

Chicago (AP)—Chicago's Maroons scored two touchdowns against their "promising" freshmen squad Tuesday, but Jay Berwanger, playing with the frosh, almost carried the play away from the varsity—and the Maroon fullback with him. Bob Howard, attempting to tackle the former All American, suffered a broken tooth and had to leave the game. Chicago plays Virginia Saturday.

SITUATION PARALLEL

Escanaba, Mich.

Dear Sir: I will remember the 1919 Marinette-Escanaba football game just 20 years ago. Marinette was state champion that year while Escanaba went into the game undefeated and unscored on with 150 points to their credit.

This year, Marinette has 140 points to its credit, the same as Escanaba. The situation is identical to that of 1919.

Eskymos of 1939, judge for yourself. The final score of that game 20 years ago was: Marinette 34; Escanaba 6. We had no alibis because Marinette had a wonderful team then as it has this year.

We members of that 1919 team are wishing this year's Eskymos good luck and expect them to settle an old score for us.

PASS DEFENSE WORK POLISHED

Harmon's Turned Ankle Brings More Worry for Crisler

BY GEORGE A. STAUTER

Inability to cope with enemy passes has been the one weakness of the Wolverines to date and Crisler said he intends to correct it before another week has passed.

Today, the first practice session of the week for most of the squad members, found the reserves pitching passes against the first and second-string backfields in a defensive scrimmage.

In the four games so far this season, three touchdowns have been scored on passes against the Wolverines. Yale completed eight out of 12 aerials in an 87-yard march to the goal line last Saturday while Michigan State and Iowa, in earlier games, each scored once through the air.

Crisler said he expected the Illini, whom the Wolverines play Saturday at Champaign in their third Big Ten encounter of the season, to take to the air for their major gains.

Scout Wally Weber reported Illinois moved down the field against Northwestern last week on passes thrown by halfback Charley Purvis, only to be halted near the goal line by the timer's gun ending the game.

Trainer Ray Roberts said he did not believe the injury would keep the star, who leads the nation's scorers with 73 points, on the sidelines. A week ago Harmon turned the ankle in a similar workout.

Illinois plays, including Coach Bob Zuppke's "blackout" defensive formations, will go on display tomorrow, the last stiff drill before the squad entrains Friday morning.

PIMLICO TRACK IS SOUPY MUD

Challedon, Cravat and Kayak II Don't Mind Sloppy Going

BY MASON BRUNSON

Baltimore, Oct. 31 (AP) — A steady rain reduced the Maryland Jockey club's track to a soupy slush today and indications were that the three horses entered in the Pimlico Special would find the going sloppy tomorrow in the "race of the year."

The three "specialists"—W. L. Brann's Maryland-bred Challedon, T. B. Martin's Kentucky-bred Cravat and C. S. Howard's Argentine-bred Kayak II—were formally entered this morning after getting the feel of the track.

All are mudders of renown and they didn't seem to mind the wet, cold weather. They were full of ginger and were pronounced ni the best of shape for the $10,000 winner-take-all, weight for age race over a mile and three-sixteenths.

Lou Schaefer, who conditions Challedon, the three-year-old champion, was the first to enter his horse at the racing secretary's office. Trainer Walter Burrows entered Cravat next and finally Trainer Tom Smith appeared and dropped Kayak's name in the box.

Cravat got the No. 1 spot in the draw for post positions conducted by Alfred G. Vanderbilt, Jockey club president, and A. G. Weston, honorary steward. Challedon got the No. 2 position and Kayak, the third.

Post time for the race will be 3:15 p. m. (EST). It will go as scheduled even if only one horse goes to the post and a walkover occurs. The jockeys will be Eddie Arcaro for Challedon, Basil James for Cravat and George Woolf for Kayak.

The owner of the winner will receive the entire purse of $10,-000 and the Maryland Jockey club gold cup. The trainer of the winner will get $1,500 and a piece of plate.

STARTS AT 2:15

Minneapolis. (AP)—Back at full strength for the first time in several weeks, Minnesota Gophers went through an intensive passing and pass defense drill outdoors Tuesday in preparation for their game with Northwestern Saturday. After dark Northwestern running plays received attention in the field house. Two more hard practices are scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday with a light tuneup Friday before the game, which is expected to draw a crowd of 55,000.

New York, Oct. 31 (AP)—The field is starting to close in on Tennessee's powerhouse in the fight for the nation's football honors, and apparently it's the schedule-maker's fault.

Hayward Bowler Downs 9½ Pins

Rice Lake, Wis., Oct. 31 (AP)—You bowlers who break down and weep when you get nine pins on those "pocket" hits, imagine the plight of Max Johnson of Hayward, who got nine and a half pins in a bowling match here.

In a special match between Hayward and Rice Lake teams, Johnson cleared nine pins off the alley on his first ball, along with the upper half of the number five pin. He had to shoot again to erase the rest of the five pin off the alley.

ST. JOE CLOSES WITH MUNISING

Five games in a row is the aim of St. Joseph gridders this week as they prepare for their final game of the season at Munising Saturday in the annual battle for the Little Brown Jug.

Coach Carl Kant's gridders came out of the hard Gladstone battle in comparatively good shape physically and in top-notch shape mentally. They realize that the fortunes were pretty much with them in their victory and only hope they'll hold out until after the Munising game.

In the last four games, the Parochials have displayed a high-powered offense which has chalked up 81 points, largely through the individual efforts of Joe Young, fleet right halfback, who scored 57 of the points. He scored all 32 points against Manistique and repeated by chalking up all of the Parochials' 19 points against Gladstone.

While Young has been doing a major share of the cavorting offensively, the whole team has been functioning very well defensively. After the first three games in which they more or less took it on the nose from Soo, Menominee and Iron Mountain, the Parochial defense started shutting down on opposing ball carriers and Gladstone's score last Saturday was the first in four games to be scored against Kant's crew.

Munising has always been tough for the locals to crack and this year should be no exception. So, it is with an air of determination that the Parochials will take the field next Saturday. They want to bring back the Little Brown Jug, they want their fifth victory in the row, and they want to close the season with a victory.

MARINES WILL BE TOUGH FOE

Refreshed after a week's vacation during which they nursed injuries, Escanaba high school gridders are practicing diligently this week in preparation for their expected knock-down and drag-out affair with Marinette Saturday.

Coach George Ruwitch is working this week with an eye toward speeding up the offensive charge of both the line and backfield and with toughening up the line to withstand the onslaught of the hard driving Marine backs. The Eskymo mentor came away from the Marinette-LaCrosse game with great respect for Coach Harry Anderle's charges. He reported the Marines have a hard driving running attack and a defense that is well designed to take care of the Escanaba ground attack.

Merle's Knee Weak

Ruwitch has been working long hours this week with Stuart Peterson, blond junior, to have him ready for action should Merle Pfotenhauer's bum knee go bad on him again. The hard driving Eskymo captain still is favoring the knee injury and may not see much service against Marinette. While he is not up to Pfotenhauer's running, Peterson is a long distance punter and a good passer and undoubtedly will see much action Saturday.

Another boy likely to see plenty of service Saturday will be Leonard Fedrow, husky reserve end, who has shown up well in recent games. Fedrow, a senior, has been handicapped this season with an eye injury but has moved along fast of late. He will share the flank duties with Nick Goymerac.

The rest of the line probably will have Cress, Pepin, VanEffen, Davidson, Arbour and Leonard while Barron, Don Pfotenhauer and Bob Craig will round out the backfield.

Big Ten Briefs About Football

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Iowa City. (AP)—Big Jim Walker, negro tackle from Indianapolis, Ind., practiced with the University of Iowa football squad on Tuesday for the first time since he injured a knee more than three weeks ago and there were indications he would be able to play against Purdue Saturday. Practice was light, with several others on the squad still nursing injuries from the Wisconsin game.

Columbus. (AP)—Ohio State's Buckeyes went through another intensive pass defense session on Tuesday as Coach Francis Schmidt pressed for a lineup to hold Indiana in check in an important Big Ten game here Saturday. Special attention was given to the territory five to 10 yards over the scrimmage line, such as Cornell concentrated on in beating the Bucks. Defense against second-stringers using Indiana formations for ground plays also was practiced on the basis of last week's mistakes.

Bloomington. (AP) — Indiana's football squad drilled on tackling and pass defense Tuesday, then worked on its attack for the Ohio State game at Columbus Saturday. Gene White, sophomore guard who kicked the winning point in the Hoosiers' 7-to-6 victory over Illinois, suffered a side injury and was replaced by Mike Bucchianeri.

Champaign (AP) — The Illinois varsity, sent through a long defensive scrimmage, had no trouble breaking up Michigan plays as executed by a freshman eleven Tuesday. Coach Bob Zuppke closed the drill with a dummy scrimmage in which the Illini used new plays designed for the homecoming game here Saturday with Michigan. Joe Turek, guard, and Chuck Purvis, halfback, rested injured knees. Ralph Hathaway, center, and Tom Riggs, tackle, took light workouts to loosen up some bruises acquired in Saturday's game with Northwestern.

Evanston (AP) — John Haman, star center, was selected to captain the Northwestern team in Saturday's game with Minnesota. Haman reached stardom two years ago in the Minnesota game. Coach Lynn Waldorf was pleased with the improved showing of the Northwestern line

Lansing—Light frosts bring the longest seasons of fall coloration in Michigan trees, the forestry division of the department of conservation reported today in reply to inquiries about the brilliant reds and yellows already brightening the landscape.

Leaves may begin to take on their fall hues before the first frosts and without the aid of frost. While heavy frosts speed the changes that produce the coloration they also make the leaves fall more quickly, shortening the color season. For the longest possible color seasoin foresters recommend light frosts only.

IRISH ON SPOT AGAINST ARMY

Boys Somewhat Battered and Layden Worries Over Let-Down

BY EARL HILLIGAN

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 31. (AP)—Army will be in a strategic spot to hang a knockout punch on a battered, somewhat tired Notre Dame football team next Saturday in New York.

No one knows this better than Coach Elmer Layden. Off the seasonal records, the West Point eleven doesn't shape up as a match for a team undefeated in five games and holding a chance for an undefeated year. But the fact that a comparison of scores makes the Irish the choice to win has the Notre Dame mentor worried no end.

"Recalling some of the games Notre Dame has had with Army, I'm convinced that the so-called underdog in this game should be made the favorite," Layden said today. "We have to point for this game every year. Army always seems to play its best game against us—and its a cinch they'll come to Saturday's game the strongest they've been this season."

Team Has Spirit

Should the Irish suffer a let-down army could win—and Notre Dame right now is a long ways from being at top strength. The Irish, after five battles in which they have scored only 15 more points than the opposition, could stand an open date.

"It's been tough going," Layden said. "The boys are pretty well battered up and at least five regulars need a rest. But we'll probably have to use them against Army."

For spirit, alertness and determination, Layden rates this Irish team the equal to any Notre Dame team he has coached. The Irish have had to produce those qualities in big doses, principally because Bob Saggau, the only Irish triple threat back, has been handicapped by a leg injury suffered in the opener with Purdue.

But Notre Dame has come up with enough "oomph" to rise above every obstacle. When the line played poorly the backs were "hot"—and vice versa. When placements from the field were needed to win—the kicks split the uprights.

In five games Army defeated little Furman, Centre and Ursinus, tied Columbia and lost to Yale, but Coach Bill Wood says the West Pointers will be "improved" against Notre Dame. Layden won't insist on Wood putting that in writing—he'll take Bill's word for it.

Canzoneri Returns To Big Time Boxing

It will be Canzoneri's first appearance in Madison Square Garden, scene of many of his greatest triumphs, since he began his comeback campaign 18 months ago.

Canzoneri's record since returning to the wars is 16 wins, four defeats and two draws in 22 fights. While Tony's hundreds of admirers are hoping he'll upset Davis, the youngster is a 5-11 choice. Betting is light.

Marines Conclude Season On Sunday, Oppose Newberry

Manistique, Mich.—Their game with the Soo Bears last Sunday called off because of inclement weather, the Manistique Inland Marines will conclude their 1939 schedule here next Sunday with the Newberry Sportsmen providing the opposition.

The Marines have won six games to date, winning from Escanaba twice, Marinette-Menominee All Stars twice, Soo and Newberry once each. They have not been defeated this season.

Most Of Mackmen On Auction Block

Preparing for the annual meeting of major and minor league owners at Cincinnati in December, Mack said with the two exceptions "I will trade any player if we can gain young, enthusiastic players who, though not necessarily stars, possess a bright future."

Chicago (AP)—Chicago's Maroons scored two touchdowns against their "promising" freshmen squad Tuesday, but Jay Berwanger, playing with the frosh, almost carried the play away from the varsity—and the Maroon fullback with him. Bob Howard, attempting to tackle the former All American, suffered a broken tooth and had to leave the game. Chicago plays Virginia Saturday.

SITUATION PARALLEL

Escanaba, Mich.

Dear Sir: I will remember the 1919 Marinette-Escanaba football game just 20 years ago. Marinette was state champion that year while Escanaba went into the game undefeated and unscored on with 150 points to their credit.

This year, Marinette has 140 points to its credit, the same as Escanaba. The situation is identical to that of 1919.

Eskymos of 1939, judge for yourself. The final score of that game 20 years ago was: Marinette 34; Escanaba 6. We had no alibis because Marinette had a wonderful team then as it has this year.

We members of that 1919 team are wishing this year's Eskymos good luck and expect them to settle an old score for us.

PASS DEFENSE WORK POLISHED

BY GEORGE A. STAUTER

Inability to cope with enemy passes has been the one weakness of the Wolverines to date and Crisler said he intends to correct it before another week has passed.

Today, the first practice session of the week for most of the squad members, found the reserves pitching passes against the first and second-string backfields in a defensive scrimmage.

In the four games so far this season, three touchdowns have been scored on passes against the Wolverines. Yale completed eight out of 12 aerials in an 87-yard march to the goal line last Saturday while Michigan State and Iowa, in earlier games, each scored once through the air.

Crisler said he expected the Illini, whom the Wolverines play Saturday at Champaign in their third Big Ten encounter of the season, to take to the air for their major gains.

Scout Wally Weber reported Illinois moved down the field against Northwestern last week on passes thrown by halfback Charley Purvis, only to be halted near the goal line by the timer's gun ending the game.

Trainer Ray Roberts said he did not believe the injury would keep the star, who leads the nation's scorers with 73 points, on the sidelines. A week ago Harmon turned the ankle in a similar workout.

Illinois plays, including Coach Bob Zuppke's "blackout" defensive formations, will go on display tomorrow, the last stiff drill before the squad entrains Friday morning.

PIMLICO TRACK IS SOUPY MUD

Challedon, Cravat and Kayak II Don't Mind Sloppy Going

BY MASON BRUNSON

Baltimore, Oct. 31 (AP) — A steady rain reduced the Maryland Jockey club's track to a soupy slush today and indications were that the three horses entered in the Pimlico Special would find the going sloppy tomorrow in the "race of the year."

The three "specialists"—W. L. Brann's Maryland-bred Challedon, T. B. Martin's Kentucky-bred Cravat and C. S. Howard's Argentine-bred Kayak II—were formally entered this morning after getting the feel of the track.

All are mudders of renown and they didn't seem to mind the wet, cold weather. They were full of ginger and were pronounced ni the best of shape for the $10,000 winner-take-all, weight for age race over a mile and three-sixteenths.

Lou Schaefer, who conditions Challedon, the three-year-old champion, was the first to enter his horse at the racing secretary's office. Trainer Walter Burrows entered Cravat next and finally Trainer Tom Smith appeared and dropped Kayak's name in the box.

Cravat got the No. 1 spot in the draw for post positions conducted by Alfred G. Vanderbilt, Jockey club president, and A. G. Weston, honorary steward. Challedon got the No. 2 position and Kayak, the third.

Post time for the race will be 3:15 p. m. (EST). It will go as scheduled even if only one horse goes to the post and a walkover occurs. The jockeys will be Eddie Arcaro for Challedon, Basil James for Cravat and George Woolf for Kayak.

The owner of the winner will receive the entire purse of $10,000 and the Maryland Jockey club gold cup. The trainer of the winner will get $1,500 and a piece of plate.

The Pimlico Special is an invitation affair visualized by Vanderbilt as equivalaent to a national championship contest. War Admiral won the first special in 1937 but lost last year to Seabiscuit.

STARTS AT 2:15

Minneapolis. (AP)—Back at full strength for the first time in several weeks, Minnesota Gophers went through an intensive passing and pass defense drill outdoors Tuesday in preparation for their game with Northwestern Saturday. After dark Northwestern running plays received attention in the field house. Two more hard practices are scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday with a light tuneup Friday before the game, which is expected to draw a crowd of 55,000.

DENTAL SOCIETY PETITION LOSES

Advertising Law Goes On Ballot In 1940 for Referendum

Lansing, Oct. 31 (AP)—Circuit Judge Leland W. Carr today refused the petition of the Michigan State Dental society for an injunction to restrain the secretary of state from submitting the 1939 "dental advertising law" to a referendum in 1940.

The dental society and several practicing dentists had challenged the validity of referendum petitions filed with Secretary of State Harry F. Kelly and asked that he be restrained from canvassing the petitions to determine whether they were in proper form.

"The rule seems to be generally recognized that an injunction ought not to be granted against administrative officers barring them from proceeding with the performance of a legal duty on the ground that an erroneous decision may be reached," Judge Carr said.

"After consideration of the matter, I am impressed that equity may not properly interfere to prevent defendant from performing the duty imposed on him by the constitution of the state. As before noted, if such duty is not performed properly the remedy of mandamus is available."

Postmistress Sees Large Xmas Volume

Probably few have begun to take Christmas shopping problems seriously yet, but Mrs. Regina Cleary, Escanaba postmistress, placed her order for Christmas stamps yesterday and is preparing for a rush of business in December five times the normal monthly volume.

Mrs. Cleary shied at quoting figures, but she revealed that despite the fact that October business was off slightly as compared with business a year ago, she anticipated a healthy pick-up for November and December, with Christmas mailing to be as heavy or heavier than usual.

The point of that is, of course, that if she's right, Escanaba merchants may take heart.

FORMER MANAGER VISITS

Sault Ste. Marie—Vast physical improvement in the city of which he once was manager is seen by Wilder Rich, back in the Sault today after 20 years absence, and still claiming it is one of the best cities in the United States.

"I am proud to see that the Sault is literally out of debt, one of the few municipalities to be found in this condition in the United States today, and that Henry Sherman has adhered to the "pay as you go" policy, which we fought so hard to adopt 20 years ago," said Mr. Rich, who stopped in the Sault for a brief visit enroute from Ironwood, where he has been conducting an electric rate investigation for his company.

Mr. Rich, one-time city manager of Ironwood, and now affiliated with Campbell-Phelps and company, Inc., a New York bonding firm, as municipal consultant in administration and finance, refunding programs and utilities financing, has been in that city for the past 10 days conducting a preliminary investigation preparatory to a possible purchase by Ironwood of the utility which serves that city with electrical power and lighting.

There has been not one cent of money expended by Ironwood taxpayers for the preliminary investigation of rates by his company asserts Mr. Rich.

NSTC ALUMNI ELECT

Marquette—Napoleon J. Martin superintendent of the Baraga county schools, was named president of the newly formed alumni association of the Northern State Teachers college at a meeting held in the auditorium following the Northern-Michigan Tech football game Saturday afternoon.

Rollin Thoren and Mrs. Dorothy Wright Harrison, of Marquette, were named first and second vice-presidents, respectively; W. H. Treloar, of Ishpeming, is third vice-president; John P. McNamara, of Negaunee, was named fourth vice-president, and John Hogan, of Marquette, secretary-treasurer.

It was the unanimous opinion of those present that for the first year at least that a strong representation of Marquette alumni be on the official personnel because of their closer contact with the school. Because it is expected that the secretaryship will eventually be more of an executive position, it was felt this should go to Marquette.

ENGINE TO USE SEWAGE GASSES

Installation of a new 25 kilowatt motor generator which will utilize gas resulting from sewage treatment processes, is almost finished at the Escanaba sewage treatment plant. The new equipment is expected to be in operation by the first of next week.

This is one of the few installations of its kind in this part of the country and represents a fine point of economy in that the gas generated by sewage treatment is used again to treat more sewage and thereby create more gas.

The new equipment costs $2,100 but in a single year it will save the city $1,000, according to Manager George E. Bean. The new engine is replacing an outworn and smaller engine which was used to operate one of the plant's blowers.

Formerly a little more than 50 per cent of the sewage gas has been utilized in heating a gas boiler and in furnishing power for operating blowers directly.

The new arrangement will use this gas for heating the building, for manufacturing power to run machinery and for operating a drying system for the "digester" of the sewage process.

An average of about 12,000 cubic feet of gas is manufactured daily at the plant and later this may reach 15,000 cubic feet. At present, this means about 400,000 cubic feet a month, or almost 10 per cent of the output of the city gas utility, which makes about 45,000,000 cubic feet a month.

WILL SURVEY ROUTE

Negaunee—Mayor Leslie Richards has received word from Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner, that Benjamin Sparks, of Escanaba, state engineer and assistant to Mr. Van Wagoner in the upper peninsula, will come to Negaunee the latter part of this week to make a survey of the condition of M-35 between Negaunee and Gwinn.

No assurance was given that anything would be done to improve the road, but the survey will be made so that the highway department may have definite information and be prepared to include the route in its program for repair as soon as that is possible.

Improvements on M-35 have been sought for some time and have been endorsed by civic bodies in Negaunee, Ishpeming, Palmer and Gwinn.

CHILDREN'S AID FUNDS RUN OUT

No Crippled, Afflicted Cases To Be Handled for 30 Days

Funds for treatment and hospitalization of afflicted and crippled children, under the jurisdiction of the probate court, are exhausted and no more cases can be taken care of for at least 30 days, Probate Judge Frank Mileski announced yesterday.

The demand for this type of aid has been very heavy in the last few months, Judge Mileski said, and at the same time the funds allowed for such work have been curtailed sharply. Fifteen cases of treatment and hospitalization have been handled in the last month through the probate office and funds for November are used.

Regardless of the nature of the need, Judge Mileski emphasized, it is impossible for the probate office to give aid until more money is forthcoming from the state.

Also, a new order has just been received from the Michigan Crippled Children's commission, which says that for tonsil and adenoid removals, hernia and other kindred surgical treatment, no claims will be allowed by the commission—unless special permission is first obtained from the commission and written approval is filed with the billing.

DENTAL SOCIETY PETITION LOSES

Advertising Law Goes On Ballot In 1940 for Referendum

Lansing, Oct. 31 (AP)—Circuit Judge Leland W. Carr today refused the petition of the Michigan State Dental society for an injunction to restrain the secretary of state from submitting the 1939 "dental advertising law" to a referendum in 1940.

The effect of the decision is to suspend operation of the law until 1940.

The law restricted advertising by dentists.

The dental society and several practicing dentists had challenged the validity of referendum petitions filed with Secretary of State Harry F. Kelly and asked that he be restrained from canvassing the petitions to determine whether they were in proper form.

"The rule seems to be generally recognized that an injunction ought not to be granted against administrative officers barring them from proceeding with the performance of a legal duty on the ground that an erroneous decision may be reached," Judge Carr said.

"After consideration of the matter, I am impressed that equity may not properly interfere to prevent defendant from performing the duty imposed on him by the constitution of the state. As before noted, if such duty is not performed properly the remedy of mandamus is available."

Postmistress Sees Large Xmas Volume

Probably few have begun to take Christmas shopping problems seriously yet, but Mrs. Regina Cleary, Escanaba postmistress, placed her order for Christmas stamps yesterday and is preparing for a rush of business in December five times the normal monthly volume.

Mrs. Cleary shied at quoting figures, but she revealed that despite the fact that October business was off slightly as compared with business a year ago, she anticipated a healthy pick-up for November and December, with Christmas mailing to be as heavy or heavier than usual.

Electric Power Parley At Houghton Nov. 9

Houghton—Only ten days remain before the Upper Peninsula Electric Power conference opens a three-day session at the Michigan College of Mining and Technology on Thursday, November 9.

On the program are thirteen technical talks by as many expert engineers, movies describing electrical equipment, group discussions, laboratory and lecture demonstrations, and a dinner during which short talks will be presented.

An attendance of more than 100 persons is expected.

The 1930 conference, second in the series of such meetings, is held to bring together representative of power companies and municipalities — chiefly of the upper peninsula, and Michigan Tech faculty members and students, for the purpose of exchanging ideas pertaining to the electrical profession.

The first conference, held at Michigan Tech in October, 1937, proved so popular that it was decided to make the session a periodic event.

This year, as in 1937, the conference will be held under the chairmanship of Professor Swenson of the Tech department of electrical engineering.

Professor Swenson will be assisted by an advisory committee consisting of Albert Hoyle of Iron Mountain, Wisconsin-Michigan Power company; Hugo Lillquist, superintendent of the Escanaba Light company; John Ralph of the Houghton County Electric Light company; and Charles Retallic, superintendent of the light department of the City of Marquette. These men, together with J. W. Perry of the bureau of government, University of Michigan, also comprised the advisory board of the 1937 conference.

Michigan In Washington

Esther Van Wagoner Tufty

Now that the neutrality debate has shifted from the Senate to the House, our Michigan representatives who have been hibernating or back home politicking, have joined the Old Faithfuls on the Floor.

The House debate is far different from the Senate debate which ended in a 63 to 30 vote for repeal. Senators can talk as long as they can stand to listen to themselves, but the House members are limited by the Rules Committee. So taks are shorter and promise to be louder and funnier.

Of course, House members could have made speeches during the past month of senate debate—as did Congressman Albert J. Engel, of Muskegon—but they could not talk directly to the bill not then in final Senate form. Besides what is the fun when the galleries are empty and only a handful keep up the pretense that the House is in session?

It is not as easy to predict how Michigan's 17 congressmen in the House will vote as it was in the Senate where Arthur H. Vandenberg made what is generally recognized as the best speech for keeping the arms embargo and Senator Prentiss M. Brown's plea for repeal will long be remembered for its stinging reprimand to Col. Lindbergh.

The majority of our congressmen themselves believe that the vote will line up the Republicans against the administration-Senate approved bill, with not more than one or possibly two exceptions. The only doubtfuls mentioned, on the Republican side, are Carl E. Mapes, of Grand Rapids, dean of the delegation, and Clarence J. McLeod, who represents a Detroit district partly blue-stocking and partly foreign born. On the Democratic side, the not-so-sure voters for repeal are still Dr. Rudolph Tenerowicz and Louis A. Rabaut, both of Detroit.

Of course, no one knows what changes the House may manage to put into the bill, but certainly the heart, the arms embargo repeal, will not be changed. As Congressman Paul Shafer, Battle Creek Republican says, "Many of us could go a long with the improved Senate bill—except for the all-important arms embargo provision."

Sober-thinking Earl C. Michener, Adrian Republican, praises high the Senate debate. It's full airing of the issue has adequately informed the public, says Michener, who thanks the abundance of debate for a better bill, free of credit privileges and Presidential discretionary power provisions.

But more importantly, he says, the Senators were put on the spot and forced flatly to state they would not vote for war.

The late evening vote on the Neutrality bill in the Senate prevented Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg catching the afternoon plane to Michigan, where he had hoped to attend President Ruthven's 10th anniversary dinner at the University of Michigan. If he had caught the plane, he could have chatted with his friendly enemy Attorney General Frank Murphy, also headed for Ann Arbor.

No other Washington dignitaries were especially invited-even Senator Prentiss M. Brown or Congressman Earl C. Michener who represents the Ann Arbor area in the House.

Senator Brown, however, was hoping for an early vote just as ardently as Senator Vandenberg, for he had planned with Mrs. Brown to drive all night, if necessary, to make the Michigan-Yale game on Saturday.

Michigan delegations frequently descend on Washington but the "Mothers of America" from Detroit was something different. All set to storm Senator Prentiss Brown's office, they were stopped abruptly at the entrance of the Senate office building by a Capitol Cop. A ruling forbids more than five to stampede a senator—but Senator Brown told the police to let them all come in at once. The cop agreed but stood guard. Brown gave them all the time and consideration they asked — and they gave him the fireworks. They interrupted each other. They applauded each other—and even once in awhile the senator. Only three of the 37 bothered to visit Senator Vandenberg since he was committed to their cause to keep the embargo.

Congressman Earl C. Michener, Veteran member of the House Judiciary committee, has been named by Speaker Bankhead on the special committee set up to arrange a fitting ceremony for the 150th anniversary of the Supreme Court.

ADDITIONAL RABIES ANGLES

By Buell Patterson

There are indications that pressure will be put on the Government to take a hand in the rabies situation. The Department of Agriculture, through its licensing of vaccines, has power to act and demands are increasing that it put a stop to the distribution of anti-rabic vaccine. This is a reason for veterinarians to act first.

The plight of dog breeders who find their normal markets taken away through rabies scares is not so easy of solution. The mere talk of rabies frightens many people to the point where they do not look at the situation logically. They do not take into account that rabies is not a disease of pure-bred dogs. That, of course, is not because the pure-bred is immune.

He is not. But rabies can only be spread through a bite and the pure-bred dog is ordinarily kept under control. The person who pays a good price for a dog does not simply let him run loose to fend for himself.

As a matter of fact the whole rabies business has been terribly overdone, thanks to the rabies racketeers. The disease does exist, but it is nowhere near so prevalent as some persons would have us believe. Furthermore, in both dogs and humans there is a very high degree of natural immunity.

Only a percentage—many who have studied the disease believe the percentage decidedly small — of persons or dogs bitten by a rabid dog can contract the disease.

In some places the swing of the pendulum has resulted in the raising of restrictions that have been in force. In New Jersey, which early this year provided a good example of rabies hysteria, the quarantine is being lifted. The State Department removed the quarantine in five counties.

It is not correct to imply that the action of New Jersey officials in imposing the quarantine was hysterical. It was precautionary and simply required that dogs should not be allowed to run at large. The hysteria was supplied either by well-meaning persons who knew little about the disease, or by those who, from selfish motives wished to see vaccination extended.

Persons who buy a good dog, from those kennels which guarantee the health of the animals they sell, have virtually no chance of being brought in contact with rabies.

DENTAL SOCIETY PETITION LOSES

Advertising Law Goes On Ballot In 1940 for Referendum

Lansing, Oct. 31 (AP)—Circuit Judge Leland W. Carr today refused the petition of the Michigan State Dental society for an injunction to restrain the secretary of state from submitting the 1939 "dental advertising law" to a referendum in 1940.

The effect of the decision is to suspend operation of the law until 1940.

The law restricted advertising by dentists.

The dental society and several practicing dentists had challenged the validity of referendum petitions filed with Secretary of State Harry F. Kelly and asked that he be restrained from canvassing the petitions to determine whether they were in proper form.

"The rule seems to be generally recognized that an injunction ought not to be granted against administrative officers barring them from proceeding with the performance of a legal duty on the ground that an erroneous decision may be reached," Judge Carr said.

"After consideration of the matter, I am impressed that equity may not properly interfere to prevent defendant from performing the duty imposed on him by the constitution of the state. As before noted, if such duty is not performed properly the remedy of mandamus is available."

Electrical Workers Assembling Lights

Postmistress Sees Large Xmas Volume

Probably few have begun to take Christmas shopping problems seriously yet, but Mrs. Regina Cleary, Escanaba postmistress, placed her order for Christmas stamps yesterday and is preparing for a rush of business in December five times the normal monthly volume.

Mrs. Cleary shied at quoting figures, but she revealed that despite the fact that October business was off slightly as compared with business a year ago, she anticipated a healthy pick-up for November and December, with Christmas mailing to be as heavy or heavier than usual.

The point of that is, of course, that if she's right, Escanaba merchants may take heart.

FORMER MANAGER VISITS

Sault Ste. Marie—Vast physical improvement in the city of which he once was manager is seen by Wilder Rich, back in the Sault today after 20 years absence, and still claiming it is one of the best cities in the United States.

"I am proud to see that the Sault is literally out of debt, one of the few municipalities to be found in this condition in the United States today, and that Henry Sherman has adhered to the "pay as you go" policy, which we fought so hard to adopt 20 years ago," said Mr. Rich, who stopped in the Sault for a brief visit enroute from Ironwood, where he has been conducting an electric rate investigation for his company.

Mr. Rich, one-time city manager of Ironwood, and now affiliated with Campbell-Phelps and company, Inc., a New York bonding firm, as municipal consultant in administration and finance, refunding programs and utilities financing, has been in that city for the [illegible] 10 days conducting a preliminary investigation preparatory to a possible purchase by Ironwood of the utility which serves that city with electrical power and lighting.

There has been not one cent of money expended by Ironwood taxpayers for the preliminary investigation of rates by his company asserts Mr. Rich.

NSTC ALUMNI ELECT

Marquette—Napoleon J. Martin, superintendent of the Baraga county schools, was named president of the newly formed alumni association of the Northern State Teachers college at a meeting held in the auditorium following the Northern-Michigan Tech football game Saturday afternoon.

Rollin Thoren and Mrs. Dorothy Wright Harrison, of Marquette, were named first and second vice-presidents, respectively; W. H. Treloar, of Ishpeming, is third vice-president; John P. McNamara, of Negaunee, was named fourth vice-president, and John Hogan, of Marquette, secretary-treasurer.

It was the unanimous opinion of those present that for the first year at least that a strong representation of Marquette alumni be on the official personnel because of their closer contact with the school. Because it is expected that the secretaryship will eventually be more of an executive position, it was felt this should go to Marquette.

Installation of a new 25 kilowatt motor generator which will utilize gas resulting from sewage treatment processes, is almost finished at the Escanaba sewage treatment plant. The new equipment is expected to be in operation by the first of next week.

This is one of the few installations of its kind in this part of the country and represents a fine point of economy in that the gas generated by sewage treatment is used again to treat more sewage and thereby create more gas.

The new equipment costs $2,100 but in a single year it will save the city $1,000, according to Manager George E. Bean. The new engine is replacing an outworn and smaller engine which was used to operate one of the plant's blowers.

Formerly a little more than 50 per cent of the sewage gas has been utilized in heating a gas boiler and in furnishing power for operating blowers directly.

The new arrangement will use this gas for heating the building, for manufacturing power to run machinery and for operating a drying system for the "digester" of the sewage process.

An average of about 12,000 cubic feet of gas is manufactured daily at the plant and later this may reach 15,000 cubic feet. At present, this means about 400,000 cubic feet a month, or almost 10 per cent of the output of the city gas utility, which makes about 45,000,000 cubic feet a month.

WILL SURVEY ROUTE

Negaunee—Mayor Leslie Richards has received word from Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner, that Benjamin Sparks, of Escanaba, state engineer and assistant to Mr. Van Wagoner in the upper peninsula, will come to Negaunee the latter part of this week to make a survey of the condition of M-35 between Negaunee and Gwinn.

No assurance was given that anything would be done to improve the road, but the survey will be made so that the highway department may have definite information and be prepared to include the route in its program for repair as soon as that is possible.

Mayor Richards and another representative of the city will make the trip with Mr. Sparks.

No Crippled, Afflicted Cases To Be Handled for 30 Days

Funds for treatment and hospitalization of afflicted and crippled children, under the jurisdiction of the probate court, are exhausted and no more cases can be taken care of for at least 30 days, Probate Judge Frank Mileski announced yesterday.

The demand for this type of aid has been very heavy in the last few months, Judge Mileski said, and at the same time the funds allowed for such work have been curtailed sharply. Fifteen cases of treatment and hospitalization have been handled in the last month through the probate office and funds for November are used.

Regardless of the nature of the need, Judge Mileski emphasized, it is impossible for the probate office to give aid until more money is forthcoming from the state.

Also, a new order has just been received from the Michigan Crippled Children's commission, which says that for tonsil and adenoid removals, hernia and other kindred surgical treatment, no claims will be allowed by the commission—unless special permission is first obtained from the commission and written approval is filed with the billing.
